TRAIN WRECKERS FOILED.

Attempt to Wreck Fast Express on Baltimore & Ohio at Ohiopyle Is Frustrated.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., May 30.—(Special.)—The lateness of the fast westbound passenger train No. 5 on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad last evening frustrated the plot of a gang of trainwreckers near Ohiopyle. A pile of stones had been placed on the rails above the Ohiopyle falls.

A slow freight train passed at about the time the passenger train was due and ran into the obstruction. The pilot of the engine was smashed, but the train was moving so slowly that it was stopped before further damage was done.

The Casualties in the Mikado's Fleet Are Estimated at 400 Men—Submarines Probably Played an Important Part in the Fight—Togo Sends a Laconic Message Telling of His Victory—Captured Vessels Are Taken Into Japanese Ports

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The official Japanese report on the latest details of the great naval battle in the Korean straits is made in a cablegram received tonight by the Japanese legation here from the foreign office at Tokyo, conveying Admiral Togo's dispatches up to this afternoon. The report says Admiral Rojestvensky and another admiral and staff officers were taken prisoners on the sinking of Rojestvensky's flagship, the Kniaz Souvaroff, Saturday night, south of Urleung island, off the Korean coast.

The total number of vessels lost to the Russians, according to Admiral Togo, reaches 22, and he adds that, although the full particulars are not yet in, none of the Japanese ships was seriously injured and the loss to the first division of the Japanese fleet was over 400.

The report says the armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi ran aground on Urleung island; that the battleships Oslabya (already admitted by the Russian admiralty) and the Navarin were sunk; that the battleship Sissoi Veliky went to the bottom Sunday morning; that the coast defense ship Admiral Oushakoff was sunk after a vigorous pursuit, her crew being rescued, and gives other details as to vessels sunk or disabled. The Japanese admiral, Misu, was slightly wounded. The protected cruiser Almaz, which has already arrived at Vladivostok, is referred to in the report as suspected to have sunk."

Capture of Rojestvensky.

The fifth report from Togo, received on the afternoon of May 30, says:

"The main force of our combined fleet, upon accepting surrender of the remaining Russian main force near Liancourt rocks in the afternoon of May 28, as already reported, stopped pursuit, and while engaged in the disposition of surrendered ships found in a southwestern direction the Admiral Ushakoff, a coast defense ship. Thereupon the Iwate and the Yakumo were immediately dispatched in pursuit and invited her to surrender, but she refused and was sunk at 6 p. m. Her crew of over 300 men were rescued.

"The cruiser Dmitri Donskoi was also found in the northwestern direction at 5 p. m. and was immediately overtaken and fired on vigorously by our fourth division and second destroyer flotilla. She was attacked that night by the second destroyer flotilla, and the next morning was found aground on the southeastern shore of Urleung island, off the Korean coast.

"Our destroyer Sazanami captured toward the evening of May 27, in the south of Urleung island, the Russian destroyer Bledovy, wherein were found Admiral Rojestvensky and another admiral, both severely wounded, together with 80 Russians, including staff officers from the flagship Prince Suvaroff, which was sunk at 5:29 p. m. on May 27. They were all taken prisoners.

Japanese Losses Slight.

"Our cruiser Chitose, while cruising to the northward on the morning of May 28, found and sunk another Russian destroyer. Our cruiser Niitaka and destroyer Murakumo attacked also at noon on May 28 a Russian destroyer, which finally went aground. According to various reports hitherto received, and statements of prisoners, the result of the battle from May 27 to May 29 is as follows:

"Prince Suvaroff, Alexandre III., Borodino, Dmitri Donskoi, Admiral Nakimoff, Monomach, Jemtchug, Admiral Oushakoff, one converted cruiser and two destroyers, sunk.

"Nicholas I., Orel, Admiral Apraxine, Admiral Seniavin and destroyer Biedovy, captured. According to the prisoners the Oslabja sunk about 3 p. m., and the Navarin also was sunk.

"The Almaz on May 27 was observed in a disabled and sinking condition, but her final fate is yet unknown. The full particulars regarding the injury to our ships are not yet in hand, but so far as I could ascertain none was seriously injured, all being still engaged in operations. The whole casualties are not yet ascertained. The casualties of the first division are little over 400. Prince Yorihito is in excellent health. Admiral Misu was slightly wounded May 27."

Summary of Russian Losses.

The sixth report, received the afternoon of May 30, says:

"Loss of the Oslabia and the Navarin confirmed. The Sissoi-Veliki is also definitely reported to have sunk on the morning of May 28.

"Official statement of Russian losses so far ascertained:

"Following six battleships sunk: Prince Suvaroff, Imperator-Alexandre III., Borodino, Oslabja, Sissoi-Veliki and Navarin.

"Following five cruisers sunk: Admiral Nakimoff, Dmitri Donskoi, Vladimir Monomach, Svietlana and Jemtchug.

"Coast defense ship Admiral Oushakoff sunk.

"Two special service ships, the repair ship Kamtchatka and three destroyers also sunk.

"Two battleships, the Orel and Imperator Nicholai I.; two coast defense ships, General Admiral Apraxine and Admiral Seniavin, and one destroyer, the Biedovy, captured.

"Thus the Russians lost altogether 22 ships, the aggregate tonnage whereof amounting to 152,411 tons, beside the cruiser Almaz, suspected to have sunk."

The state department has received the following dispatch from Tokyo:

"It is officially announced that all of the Russian battleships have been sunk except the Orel and Nicholai I., which were captured. Admirals Rojestvensky, Volkersham and Nebogatoff all prisoners."

Prince Yorihito, whose safety is reported, is a brother of Prince Fushimi of the imperial family who visited the United States last fall. Prince Yorihito is a captain commanding one of the Japanese cruisers.

Russians Had 36 Vessels.

TOKYO, May 30.—It is now believed that four warships, in addition to those already reported lost, have been sunk by the Japanese fleet.

A warrant officer of the Russian repair ship Kamtchatka, who landed at Moji, says:

"Our fleet entered the straits of Korea, numbering 36 vessels. The Kamtchatka received several shots and was partly disabled. Finally a shot struck a vital part and 60 men entered the boats. When they were nearly clear a great explosion occurred and the ship sank. The captain and seven officers were killed during the battle. Two officers were wounded and two jumped overboard. Three other officers were drowned. We could see our battleships to the northward enveloped by the Japanese. Seemingly they were badly damaged."

The captured Russian battleship Orel arrived at the Maizuru navy yard at noon today. The battleships Nikolai I. and Admiral Seniavin and the coast defense ironclad Admiral Apraxine, reached Sasebo at 11 o'clock today. It is reported that the Orel and Nikolai I. are slightly damaged.

A Conflicting Statement.

LONDON, May 31.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Standard asserts that Mme. Rojestvensky, wife of the commander of the Russian fleet, has received a telegram from Vladivostok signed by her husband, saying he had arrived there on board the cruiser Almadz and

PAYING TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF HEROES

HEROES' GRAVES ARE HONORED

Old-Time Sectional Feeling Is Buried in the Memorial Day Services.

MEN OF THREE WARS UNITE

Pittsburgh did honor to its martial dead yesterday. Threatening clouds and showers during the afternoon interfered with outdoor sports, picnics and other festivities not in keeping with the spirit of Memorial day, and in consequence the holiday was observed in a more fitting fashion than usual in recent years. In all the local cemeteries the graves of the heroes were decorated with beautiful flowers by the hands of loving comrades, and eloquent tributes were paid to their memory.

The fife and drum were heard, as in the old days, the tattered flags were borne again, and the columns of the marchers contained fewer of the boys of '61 and they moved with less of their old-time vigor. There was nothing lacking, however, in the martial appearance of the processions to the Allegheny cemetery, where the principal memorial services were held. Heading the column escorting the veterans, was Company I, First United States Infantry, Capt. Lorry S. Upton, from the Allegheny arsenal. It had been a long time since regular soldiers were seen in a Memorial day parade in Pittsburgh, and the fine appearance of the men created much admiration, especially when it was known that Capt. Upton's men were just fresh from the battlefields of the orient. With the regulars and the old boys marched detachments of the Sons of Veterans, the Boys' Brigade and St. Mary's cadets. All made a fine showing.

Took Cars to the Cemetery.

The procession formed in Grant street and, under Commander R. N. Spohn, marched down Fifth avenue to Penn avenue, where cars were taken to the Butler street entrance of the Allegheny cemetery, where the column was joined by the regulars. A salute was fired by a one-gun section of Battery B, as the column marched into the cemetery.

The exercises were marked by the absence of sectional sentiment. There is now no chasm separating the north from the south, and in none of the addresses was there shown any spirit of the feeling that once existed between old enemies. The keynote was struck by Commander Spohn in his address, when he said, "Remember there is not one country. No north, no south. Our motto is 'one country, one flag and one God over all.'"

Congressman James Francis Burke, who was the principal orator at the Allegheny cemetery, said:

Throughout the nation at this hour the peaceful is here and there appreciating the blessed privileges of this blessed day to praise the deed and despair of the living. The virtues of the one and the vices of the other are rapidly becoming familiar items for certain Memorial day addresses.

To mar these ceremonies with dissertations on the depravity of today is to thwart the intelligence of the living and to desecrate the memory of their forefathers.

As for the American people and the American republic, they are both far more vigorous and virtuous today than ever before.

At St. Mary's and Homewood.

After the flowers had been spread upon the graves of fallen comrades and the wooded hills of the cemetery gave back the echoes of sweet music by the Grand Army choir and the sacred dirge by the muffled drums, the veterans marched to St. Mary's cemetery, where the same loving services were paid to the dead whose dust is gathered in that burial ground.

At the Homewood cemetery the services were conducted by members of post No. 117 and other Grand Army veterans. Capt. W. H. H. Wasson, in his eulogy, said in part:

Friends and Comrades: Do not think that I would keep the old sectional animosities alive. God forbid! This memorial service was not instituted to perpetuate the bitter memories of the past. We would do violence to the spirit of this occasion and send jarring discords into sorrowing hearts if aught in the words we speak or the offices we perform tended to foment the old asperities or revive the old animosities that the blare of time and the progress of better counsels are so steadily and surely destroying.

The positive and memories that all our hearts today are chastened by silence. We are standing in the shadow of the coffin, we are looking into the open grave, we are amid admonitions of death and eternity, and in the presence of such thoughts there is no place for bitter feelings, no room for malice or perverse. I half it as an inspiration from God that the day appointed to commemorate the new birth of the nation is marked by no ceremonies of exaggerations of bloodshed and carnage but by beautiful services and flowers, offerings expressive only of unity, fraternity and peace.

I trust it will be observed through all our history as the national burial day of the nation, when all over the land the people will follow to the tomb and bury out of sight all sectional jealousies, all dissensions that grew into feuds and rises into strife, and over the ashes of the sleeping nations

AN ANGRY ITALIAN STABS FIVE MEN

Starts to Fight When Refused a Drink in a Coraopolis Saloon.

Angered because he was refused a drink by a bartender in a saloon in Coraopolis, shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, an unknown Italian from Sewickley started a fight and severely cut five men with a knife. The Italian was stopped in his bloody work by being struck on the head with a stool. He escaped from the saloon, followed by a crowd, and crossed to the Sewickley side of the Ohio river in a skiff, where all trace of him was lost. The injured:

JOHN TREDLE; throat cut from ear to ear, but not fatally, and slashed down the back.

JOHN MOORE of Coraopolis; cut about the face and body; taken home.

JOHN ECKLES of Coraopolis; cut about the face and body.

ANTHONY MINIX, Italian; cut about the throat and face; taken to the borough lockup.

UNKNOWN MAN; cut about the body.

UNKNOWN ITALIAN, who started the fight, cut in the head by stool.

With four others the Italian crossed to Coraopolis in the afternoon and with his companions started drinking. A man in the barroom saw the Italian draw a knife and shouted to the other men, but the Italian rushed among them, striking right and left with the knife, while his companions struck the men with their fists. He slashed Minix, one of his companions, seriously injuring him. After the several men had been cut the crowd rushed outside the barroom and as the Italian was pursuing them he was knocked down with the stool, which was thrown by one of the uninjured men.

The Italians rushed outside the hotel and down the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad tracks. They were followed by Chief of Police Joseph Barnon, who captured three of them. The prisoners gave their names as Anthony Minix, 6th Tatano and Jose Tiner. The Italian who did the cutting escaped to the Sewickley side of the river.

LIGHTNING STRIKES AND INJURES FOUR

Memorial Day Crowd Seeks Shelter from Storm in a Church and Many Suffer.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

UNIONSVILLE, O., May 30.—The Presbyterian church at Dearsville was struck by lightning this afternoon and four persons were seriously injured. The injured are Bertha Marlenee, Viola Moore, Sadie McKibben and Alla Bell.

Four hundred people had gathered at the church to march to the cemetery for memorial services when a shower came up. The people had hardly gone into the church when the building was struck. The crowd started to stampede, but was prevented by M. F. Guthrie, who got in the doorway and quieted the frightened people. Women fainted and several more were slightly hurt.

FLAUNTED STARS AND BARS.

Port Carbon Woman Floats Confederate Flag and Town Officials Order It Taken Down.

POTTSVILLE, May 30.—(Special.)—When Mrs. T. E. Hoehner, wife of a prominent Philadelphia & Reading railway official, she being of southern birth, today displayed from her third story window at Port Carbon a confederate flag above the Stars and Stripes, the Grand Army of the Republic veterans were indignant. They halted the Memorial day parade while a committee requested its removal, but received a flat refusal.

When the burgess, Samuel W. Wagner, and William Burnham repeated their request with this threat, "If you don't take it in we will blow it to pieces with bullets," the emblem came down.

PARADERS RIOT OVER PLACE AT YOUNGSTOWN

Guardsmen and Foreign Service Men Fight a Battle Over Position in Line.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 30.—As the result of a riot between members of Company I, Ohio National guard, locally known as the Logan Rifles, and members of the local camp of American Veterans of Foreign Service, two men were slightly injured, the Memorial day services interrupted, and the foreign service men refused to participate in the parade.

The trouble was caused by the Logan Rifles taking the place of the service men in the line of the parade. Tod post, G. A. R., held the right of line and was to be followed by the service men. As the parade was being formed two riflemen attempted to take the place assigned to the service men. Capt. Hallman of the service men objected, and Capt. Ulrich of the rifles struck him across the face with the flat of his sword.

In an instant there was a free-for-all fight between the men of the two commands. The riflemen used the butts of their muskets in driving back their opponents. Capt. Hallman wrenched Capt. Ulrich's sword from him, but was badly cut in the hand in doing so. William Brawley, a member of the service men's organization, was beaten and cut with the rifle butts. Hallman was also cut across the face. The fight lasted several minutes and considerably marred the exercises of the day.

TWENTY-FIVE WORKMEN ENTOMBED IN TUNNEL

Earth Caves in at an Irrigation Project—Rescue Will Be Difficult.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MONTROSE, COL., May 30.—A cave-in occurred today in the Gunnison tunnel, one of the largest irrigation projects of the United States government, entombing about 25 workmen. It is not likely that any of the men are dead, unless they were caught and crushed to death by the falling earth, for the air pump pipes have been working almost without interruption since the accident happened, at 10 o'clock this morning.

By order of Resident Engineer McConnell, all work on the tunnel has been suspended and the entire force of men and machinery have been brought to the scene of the cave-in to aid in rescuing the entombed men. No headway can be made in the tunnel for the reason that new breaks in the roof occur as fast as the debris is removed.

A shaft is being sunk directly over the spot where the men are buried and machinery is in place to remove the dirt and rock as fast as it can be dug or blown out. The shaft must penetrate 60 feet before the tunnel can be reached, and it is not thought the distance can be covered before tomorrow noon. The cave-in occurred beneath the bed of Cedar creek, and was primarily due to the softened earth caused by seepage from the creek.

concentrate themselves to the work of rebuilding the old friendships, restoring the old sympathy and reconstructing the old harmony that the revolution created and the rebellion so terribly shattered.

Colored Heroes Not Forgotten.

Post No. 137 had charge of the services in the Oakland and Minersville cemeteries and post No. 206 decorated the graves of colored heroes in the Lincoln cemetery. Commander Jonas Walker had 1,200 men in line in the parade in Allegheny, which terminated with exercises at the Uniondale cemetery. The organizations taking part were posts No. 88, No. 126 and No. 162, Grand Army of the Republic; camps No. 33, No. 56 and No. 98, Sons of Veterans; Camp Jenkins No. 10, United Spanish War Veterans and post No. 3, American Veterans of the Foreign Service. Songs by Allegheny school children were features of the day.

The South Side parade formed at Washington and Arlington avenues under Commander Louis Schuck, and marched to the South Side cemetery, where the formal exercises were held in charge of posts No. 181 and No. 236. At the conclusion of the services details decorated the graves in the other burial grounds along the old Brownsville road.

The veterans of Hampton Battery B held memorial exercises around the Hampton monument in East park, Allegheny, and later decorated the graves of Capt. A. E. Hunt and other members of the battery in Allegheny cemetery.

Throughout the county services were held, and even in isolated country graveyards honor was done to the memory of the soldier dead who were buried there.

Maj. W. G. Lory post No. 548, Wilkinsburg, held its exercises at Beulah and Hebron cemeteries. At Beulah Past Commander D. B. Douthett read Lincoln's address at Gettysburg and Attorney W. E. Ralston delivered the oration. A salute was fired by Company I, Fourteenth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania. At Hebron cemetery W. C. McMahon of the confederate army (Stonewall Jackson's command) gave an address, followed by three cheers for him by the post. The Rev. Mr. Bartley, pastor of the Hebron United Presbyterian church, also addressed the post. The Rev. J. C. High of Brushton made an address.

Campfires Were Held.

McDonald Grand Army of the Republic post No. 30 marched with the McDonald cornet band to the cemeteries in the vicinity of McDonald, where memorial exercises were held. Last night a campfire was held in Young's hall, where addresses and songs were features. Miss Agnes Murphy was soloist.

Memorial exercises were held in the Oakdale cemetery. Veterans of the Spanish-American war, accompanied by the Boys' brigade and Girls' brigade and the Oakdale hose company, marched to the cemetery. At night a meeting was held in the Presbyterian church. Addresses were made by George Henderson, F. H. Kennedy and E. E. Fulmer. H. J. Nesbit presided.

RAID CHINESE GAMBLERS.

Between Sixty and Seventy Prisoners Are Taken in Daylight in New York City.

NEW YORK, May 30.—(Special.)—With 90 policemen, Acting Capt. Eggers of Police Commissioner McAdoo's personal staff led the most successful daylight raid ever made upon Chinatown this afternoon. Eleven alleged gambling houses were visited and between 60 and 70 Chinamen were taken prisoners.

A crowd of more than 5,000 persons were held back at the ends of the streets and several score American revolvers were taken from the prisoners, while a bushel basketful of strange looking weapons were accumulated, together with a peck of powder, which it is asserted, lookouts kept to blind the eyes of the policemen.

Floating Death Trap Carries Gasoline, Naptha, Dynamite and Powder to Manila.

NEW YORK, May 30.—When the four-masted schooner Goodwin Stoddard sailed for San Juan, P. R., today she was an immense floating bombshell. Her cargo, described by old rivermen as the most dangerous that ever left New York in a sailing vessel, consisted of gasoline, naphtha, dynamite and gunpowder. On her deck was stored the gasoline and naphtha, the former in 50 drums containing 50 gallons each and the latter in 100 cases. In the hold, with a large quantity of gunpowder, was packed away five tons of dynamite.

The captain ordered that any member of the crew found smoking should be thrown overboard.

GREENVILLE, May 30.—(Special.)—Eli George, aged 65, a farmer living near Fredonia, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid in the street here today while the Memorial day parade was passing.

George had been refused admittance to the hall where the exercises were in progress and shortly afterward ended his life. A bottle of chloroform was also found on his person. He was a member of Mercer post Grand Army of the Republic and the Greenville lodge Knights of Pythias.

IS STUPEFIED BY GREAT DISASTER

Arrival of Captured Ships in Japan Is Last Straw to Russian Admiralty.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—The Russian admiralty is literally stupefied at the extent of the disaster suffered by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet, and its own advices paint the situation in even worse colors than the Tokyo dispatches.

The Associated Press' Vladivostok dispatch, received at an early hour this morning, accounts for only two ships of the great Russian flotilla—the cruiser Almaz and the torpedo boat destroyer Grozny—and the absence of news about the battleship Navari and the cruisers Oleg and Aurora, which are the only fighting ships of any value not enumerated in the Japanese lists of destroyed or captured, and which up to 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon had not reached Vladivostok, renders almost idle any hope that they were able to shake off the pursuing Japanese cruisers and reach the shelter of the fortress at Golden Horn.

Russia has agreed to disarm and interne the big fleet of colliers and transports sent to the Chinese coast when Rojestvensky determined to try and force the straits of Korea. It is believed here the admiral did not want to be hampered by a big convoy in the sea fight, and the decision to send the convoy to the rear compelled Rojestvensky to adopt the shortest route by way of Tsu island, as some of the ships could not carry enough coal in their bunkers to steam around Japan.

The Associated Press is informed that the unpublished portion of an official dispatch, sent by wireless to Vladivostok before the arrival of the cruiser Almaz here, says the Kniaz Souvaroff was blown up probably by a submarine. Capt. Chagin of the Almaz gives the number of Japanese torpedo boats participating in the attack as eight.

The admiralty has withheld the name of the craft to which Rojestvensky is reported to have been transferred, owing to doubts as to whether it was the destroyer Buiny or the destroyer Bravi. The report sent Tuesday afternoon of the arrival of the Buiny at Vladivostok was due to a telegraph message sent to Grand Duke Alexis by Admiral Dournovo, a member of the council of the empire, informing Alexis he had received advices from Vladivostok that the destroyer's commander had picked up Rojestvensky and had followed the Almaz out of the battle. Admiral Dournovo, being under the impression that the Buiny and Rojestvensky had reached Vladivostok, so informed the Associated Press.

Tokyo's accounts of the arrival of captured warships at Japanese ports was more humiliating to the Russian naval authorities than the news of the defeat.

The opinion expressed here is that nothing can excuse the failure of the Russian commanders to sink their ships under their feet rather than to allow them to fall into the enemy's hands, the admiralty advancing the supposition that the ships were stranded on some shoals before being surrendered.

The question of inaugurating peace negotiations is not likely to be opened until full reports of the Russian disaster have been received. The war party continues its defiant attitude, and declares peace is impossible, while many Russians who heretofore have been in favor of peace, who are not humiliated by the sting of the defeat of their navy, are now in favor of a continuation of the war. Ever slow to reach a decision, it is improbable the government will decide on its course. It will pursue until after battle has been joined in Manchuria. Dispatches indicate that Field Marshal Oyama is already in motion and that a great engagement is imminent.

The government still interdicts the publication of the losses in ships not contained in its own advices, but so far as St. Petersburg is concerned the truth is known.

LINEVITCH SENDS CZAR THE MESSAGE OF DEFEAT

He Ends by Saying There Is No News to Who Perished or Who Were Saved on the Sunken Warships.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—The emperor has received the following dispatch from Lieut. Gen. Linevitch, dated May 29:

"The cruiser Almaz has arrived at Vladivostok. Her commander reports as follows: On May 2 Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet in the Tsu straits engaged the Japanese in battle. During the day we lost the battleships Kniaz Souvaroff, Borodino, Osliabia and the cruiser Ural. The battleship Alexander III. was seriously damaged at the start of the battle. After the separation of the cruiser Almaz from the fleet the battle was renewed in the darkness. The result of the night battle is not known. The Almaz was cut off from the fleet and reached Vladivostok.

"Supplementary reports of the commander of the Almaz, forwarded by the post commandant at Vladivostok, state that the transport Kamtchetka was seriously damaged. The Almaz had Lieut. Mochalin and four sailors killed and 10 sailors wounded. There is no news as to those who were saved or those who perished on the sunken warships."

that he was severely wounded in the neck, back and abdomen.

A special dispatch from Kobe, Japan, says that hundreds of Russians, many of them badly wounded, are coming ashore at Yamaguchi, on the coast of Japan opposite the straits of Korea, in boats or clinging to wreckage.

Say Japan Lost Two Ships.

VLADIVOSTOK, May 30.—Two ships alone of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's powerful flotilla, the swift cruiser Almaz and the torpedo boat destroyer Grozny, lie at anchor here today in the curving harbor of Golden Horn, they having separated from the fleet in the early stage of the battle which began in the Korean straits Saturday, and headed, in obedience to orders, with full speed to Vladivostok. Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon no other vessels of the Baltic fleet had yet arrived, and the signal stations at Askold and Rimskykorsakoff islands reported none in sight.

Officers of the Almaz and Grozny say that both fleets had already sustained terrible losses when the Almaz and Grozny broke through the hostile line. Of the Japanese, two battleships had gone down before their eyes, and two cruisers, their sterns high out of the water, seemed ready to plunge foremost to the bottom of the sea.

The Russian fleet, they say, was even in a sadder plight. Rojestvensky's flagship, the Kniaz Souvaroff, and her sister ship, the Borodino, and the cruisers Osliabia and Ural, were utterly destroyed, and when the fog closed down and hid the scene of battle from sight northward of the speeding ships, a third great Russian battleship, the Alexander III., seemed in sore distress, but limping northward, putting up a valiant fight against throngs of torpedo boats and still continuing her attacks on the cruisers of the island empire. Torpedo boats were also clinging round the other ships of the fleets like angered wasps, separate flotillas darting in again and again to launch their weapons.

The Almaz, which arrived at her anchorage here Monday evening, bears scars of the battle. Her mizzen mast is shot away, and one of her smokestacks is pierced by a cannon shot. But the Grozny, though engaged for several hours in a running fight at short range with large Japanese destroyers, shows no signs of the fray. After her commander, Capt. Andviffski, had been wounded, and an officer and three men had been killed, the Grozny succeeded in sinking her opponent with a lucky shot and reached Vladivostok without further adventure at 11 o'clock this morning.

How the Almaz Came In.

News of the impending conflict had been made known in Vladivostok through telegrams from Europe, and when it was learned Monday morning that a Russian cruiser had been sighted off Askold island, headed for the harbor, the inhabitants clustered in the streets, thronged the waterside or climbed the frowning hills overlooking the harbor.

Finally, toward 6 o'clock in the evening, a graceful cruiser, with two snowy white stacks, shot in view at the entrance to the Golden Horn and rounded to an anchorage beneath the bristling guns of the curving promontory. From afar the broken stump of her mizzen mast and a shot hole, showing black upon the white paint of one stack, indicated the cruiser had encountered the Japanese.

As the anchor chain rattled in the hawse holes the vessel wreathed itself in smoke—it was an admiral's salute in honor of Rear Admiral von Jessen. Scarcely had the boom of the last cannon begun to echo from the surrounding hills when Von Jessen's ship, the cruiser Rossia, answered the salute, and a minute later the guns of the fortress took up the cannonade.

A Bitter Disappointment.

Excitement beyond description seized the thronging spectators, who, with frantic "huzzahs," tossed high their caps. Citizens embraced each other and danced jubilantly upon the pier, while the crews of the ships in the harbor joined in wild cheering. In a trice the boats were dropped from the davits and the officers of the cruisers and torpedo boats in the harbor and the military officers from the fortress were swarming on board the Almaz to learn news of the fight.

The story was short. According to officers of the Almaz, the fleet under Rojestvensky met the Japanese in the straits of Korea near the Sui island, and the opposing fleets immediately closed in. The lightly-armored Almaz, as had been ordered by Admiral Rojestvensky before the battle, separated itself from the main fleet at the first opportunity and headed for Vladivostok, soon after the commencement of the engagement, but not too soon to observe the loss on both sides in the titanic combat.

Early in the battle an officer of the Almaz, while watching Rojestvensky's flagship, the battleship Kniaz Souvaroff, for a signal, saw the flagship shudder from stem to stern as if under a blow from a gigantic hammer, and hesitate in her course, while the waves rose high from her armored sides. Then she commenced to list and sink.

See Flagship Go Down.

The officers believe the debut of the submarine boat as an effective agent in naval warfare, or perhaps a large mine caused the disaster to the Kniaz Souvaroff. The damage, however, was so extensive that the flagship soon went down, leaving the deck officers and many of the crew struggling in the waves. One of the Russian torpedo boats, either the destroyer Buiny or the Bravi, ran in and picked up a number of the swimmers, one of whom was recognized through a glass as Admiral Rojestvensky.

Under a gruelling attack by the Japanese warships, aided by torpedo boats, mines and submarines, the Borodina, Osliabia and Ural were placed out of action and followed the flagship.

The fog which had raised and lowered intermittently during the morning began to settle down again, and the distance of the Almaz, which had now succeeded in disengaging herself from the struggling ships in the combat, made it difficult for her to see clearly, but the officers are positive they saw two Japanese battleships disappear beneath the sea, and that two Japanese cruisers appeared on the point of sinking.

SHANGHAI, May 30.—The Russian transport Korea arrived at Woosung this morning, apparently from the straits of Korea, with a big shot hole in her side and her boats shot away. The Russian sea tugboat Swer has also arrived at Woosung from Jibutil, French Somaliland. The Japanese cruiser squadron under command of Vice Admiral Kamimura is expected here from the south before Friday.

CASSINI REPELS PEACE OVERTURE

Nippon Has But to Fight On, Declares Japan's Minister, Mr. Takahira.

PRESIDENT IS EAGER TO ACT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—"Until some word of peace comes out of Tsarkoe-Selo, Nippon has but to fight on."

This epigrammatic remark of Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, made tonight with the details of the Japanese fleet before him, accurately sets forth not only his opinion, but, it is believed, that of Washington and other neutral governments represented here, regarding the effect of the battle upon Russia's policy.

Whether Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, will be the bearer of that fateful word when he sees the president tomorrow or Thursday, remains to be seen, but the ambassador in a conversation tonight was more emphatic than at any time since the war, in the declaration that the war would go on indefinitely. While admitting that he would see the president in the next few days and have a long conference on the general situation, the ambassador strongly discouraged any hopes of an early peace.

"Perhaps after Liao-Yang there was a possibility of peace. I will not say there was not an idea of peace at that time in certain quarters, but now after this crushing defeat? Never. The Japanese talk of indemnity. Russia can better use this money in the building of another fleet. Certainly this is not the time when Russia can afford to take up the question of peace."

Discourages Peace Efforts.

It is this apparent determination of Russia to continue in the face of disastrous defeats on land and sea which discourages the Washington government at this time from taking any positive steps toward offering assistance to the belligerents in coming to an understanding. It is believed here, however, that when Russia, through her own agents, has learned the full extent of her losses, she may be approached regarding peace, with some hope that overtures will be welcomed. It is such an opportunity for which this government is watching.

Soon after the president returned from New York this evening, Secretary Taft, who had been out of the city about a week, called at the White House and was in conference with him for several hours. While the secretary was there, dispatches arrived from the Japanese legation giving details of the battle, which the president read with keen interest. The president and secretary discussed a number of matters, but the outlook for peace occupied much of their time.

It is realized that the crushing character of the Russian defeat gives to the president an opportunity with entire propriety to offer his services to the St. Petersburg government in establishing communication with Tokyo, but, until it can be learned that such an offer would probably be successful, this government is not inclined to act.

Throughout the diplomatic corps today the keenest interest was displayed in the news of the conference which Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, had with the president at the White House last night.

Spurned President's Advice.

"That marks a step in the direction of peace," said a prominent diplomat, "and it is to be hoped that Russia will recognize, as does the rest of Europe, the disinterested earnestness with which the president wishes for an ending of the war. Whatever the popular feeling in this country, I think the Russian government will readily admit the attitude of President Roosevelt, personally and officially, has been all that Russia or Japan could ask. If Russia had taken the advice of the president after the battle of Liao-Yang she would now be at peace with the world, with the greater portion of her navy intact."

This reference was to a conference which the president had with Count Cassini soon after the battle of Liao Yang, when the president expressed the opinion Russia could with dignity and advantage discuss peace terms with Japan at that time, and with the certainty that no indemnity would be asked. While careful to transmit the substance of the conversation to his government, the only answer the Russian ambassador received was that "the emperor will continue the war to the bitter end."

German Ambassador Calls.

Although the state department was officially closed today, Mr. Loomis, the acting secretary of state, was early at his office to read the dispatches arriving from the far east. About 11 o'clock Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador, called informally and remained with the secretary for more than an hour discussing the battle and its probable bearing on an early ending of the war. The ambassador brought no dispatches from Berlin and told the secretary he had not heard from his government since the result of the battle was known. The ambassador will leave Washington tomorrow for Deer Park, Md., where he and the baroness have leased a cottage for the early part of June. The ambassador has arranged, however, to be in telephonic communication with his embassy daily and all dispatches will be forwarded to him.

Regarding last night's conference at the White House it is possible now to state it dealt first with the details of the battle, and secondly with the possible effect of this decisive Japanese victory upon Russia's previous determination to prolong the war indefinitely. No one realizes more clearly than the mikado that the czar must be convinced of the overwhelming character of the Russian defeat before he will consider peace, and close as are the relations between Tokyo and Washington, the Japanese government is not inclined through its minister to discuss even with the president definite peace terms until officially assured "in the czar's name that Russia is prepared seriously and in good faith to discuss peace with Japan."

Still Offers His Services.

Thus far the Washington government has not received the slightest official intimation that peace is under consideration at St. Petersburg, but a report on this point is expected very soon from Mr. Mayer, the American ambassador, who was some time ago instructed to make clear at the proper time to the Russian officials that while neither President Roosevelt nor any official of this government is ambitious for the role of peacemaker, Russia would find no power more ready to assist in opening direct negotiations with Japan than her traditional friend, the Washington government.

M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, called at the Russian embassy this afternoon and spent some time with Count Cassini. The visit was, however, of an entirely personal character. Count Cassini upon receiving a dispatch from Baron Rosen, that the latter expected to be in Washington early in July, has cabled his successor urging that he reach here in June if possible.

MISTAKEN FORMATION AIDS RUSSIAN DEFEAT

First Attack from Japanese Squadron Throws Czar's Battleline Into Disorder.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, May 31.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says the completeness of the Russian defeat was largely due to a mistaken battle formation. The armored ships were on the starboard side with cruisers and gunboats on the port side. The Japanese main force coming from the northwest attacked the port line first and promptly threw it into disorder. This disorganized the starboard line, and thus the real action was of very short duration.

The Tokyo correspondent of the Daily Mail says the battleships Navarin and Sissoi Veliky were either sunk or are Japanese prizes. The correspondents says it is believed the Japanese employed submarine boats.

The Daily Telegraph's Moji, Japan, correspondent says the captain of the armored cruiser Admiral Nakhimoff, and another officer, were swimming about in an exhausted condition for many hours when they were rescued by Shimonoseki fishermen.

The Vladivostok dispatch that Mme. Rojestvensky received a telegram from her husband, dated Vladivostok, must be placed among other similar and numerous rumors current. Like Admiral Voelkersam had arrived at Vladivostok, that he had died of cancer May 24, and other equally unfounded reports. It now seems practically certain Rojestvensky is a prisoner. The Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says he has it on reliable authority that Rojestvensky was wounded in the arm, and surrendered.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS ARE NEEDED

WASHINGTON, Ia., May 30.—At today's session of the United Presbyterian general assembly the general opinion was expressed that the church is suffering from a lack of ministers and that steps be taken to secure recruits from colleges. The Rev. W. Sands submitted the report which declared that something should be done at once to interest men in the ministry as a vocation.

"Well, soon as she gets a planner she'll be wantin' to have beaus an' the beaus will wear the sofa an' carpets out an' extra gallon of kerosene every week. Then they'll be singin' groun' here way in the night until I forget to throw things at the cats an' throw things at them. No, by ricky, if Mandy must have music I'll get her a Jewsharp."—Chicago News.

Sores All Over Face and Body—Could Not Tell What She Looked Like—Unable to Sleep—Grew Worse Under Doctors.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN ONE MONTH.

A grateful mother, in the following letter tells of another of those marvelous cures of Cuticura: "When my baby was four months old her skin broke out with a humor. I took her to a doctor, who said it was eczema. He gave me medicine to give her, but she kept getting worse all the time. Her little face and body were so covered with sores and large scales you could not tell what she looked like. No child ever had a worse case. Her face was being eaten away, and even her finger nails fell off. Then it itched so she could not sleep, and for many weary nights we could get no rest. At last we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, first bathing her in warm water with the Soap, and then spreading on the Ointment with soft cloths. I saw a change in a week. The sores began to heal, and she could sleep at night, and in one month she had not one sore on her face or body. Any mother having children with eczema or humors will find a friend in Cuticura Soap and Ointment. (Signed) Mrs. Mary Sanders, 709 Spring St., Camden, N. J., Aug. 14, 1904."

The foregoing statement justifies the oft-repeated assertion that Cuticura Soap and Ointment afford instant relief, and permit sleep for baby and rest for tired mothers, and points to a speedy, permanent, and economical cure when all else fails, in the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin, and scalp humors.

SUREST WAY TO INVITE DISASTER

President Roosevelt Says an Opulent Nation Without Arms Is in Danger.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO WAR HEROES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—In a stirring address delivered at the unveiling of a big statue of Gen. Henry W. Slocum in Brooklyn today, President Roosevelt paid a splendid tribute to the men who comprised the northern armies, but did not forget those of the southern hosts.

Most notable in his speech was an expression of his hope that as the nation increased in strength, there would come a corresponding increase in its sense of responsibility which should prevent its people from either injuring or insulting other people, his declaration being that the surest way for a nation to invite disaster is to be opulent, aggressive and unarmed.

Significant, in the light of recent events, was his assertion that: "If our navy is good enough we have a long career of peace and prosperity before us, and the only likelihood of trouble ever coming to us as a nation will arise if we let our navy become too small or inefficient."

The president arrived in Jersey City at 7:08 a. m., and was met by a committee of the Union League club. The party boarded a ferryboat and was landed at the foot of Fulton street, Brooklyn. There the party was met by Troop C and escorted to the Union League club rooms. Along the route flags were flying and thousands of people lined the streets. Leaving the Union League club, the president proceeded between cheering lines of people to the plaza where the great bronze statue of Gen. Slocum, by McMonnies, was to be unveiled. Two great stands facing the statue were filled with people. The arrival of the presidential party was signaled by the firing of a salute of 21 guns. Mayor McClellan greeted the president cordially and the multitude gave him an ovation.

Only Righteousness Justifies War.

At the dedication of the statue of Gen. Slocum, Brooklyn, President Roosevelt spoke as follows:

Mr. Mayor, Mr. Commissioner and you, my fellow citizens, and, above all, you who took part in the great war in which the man whose statue is raised today won for himself and his country renown and honor. (Applause.) Day before yesterday I listened to a sermon in which the preacher, dwelling upon the exercises to be held throughout the Union today, preached on the text which commemorates the altar raised by command of Moses to commemorate the victory gained by the children of Israel over the wild tribes of the desert who sought to bar their march toward the promised land, wherein Amalek came out and Israel fought all day, and while Aaron and Hur upheld the hands of Moses until at night fell the sun went down on the Israelites and they raised an altar to Jehovah, to Jehovah who stood as the exponent of the principle for which Israel warred; they raised it to the principle of righteousness, which alone can justify any war or any struggle. (Applause.)

I see before me here men who won high honor serving as subordinates of Gen. Slocum, and I know that there exists in the union no men who will appreciate more the fact that now, 40 years after the war, the crowning triumph of what they did is to be found in the fact that we have a genuinely reunited country, a country in which the man who wore the blue stretches out the hand of loyal friendship to his erstwhile foe, his now devoted friend and fellow countryman, the man who wore the gray. (Applause.)

The Heritage of Honor.

A short while ago I passed through the great state of Texas. Wherever I stopped in that great state I was greeted by representatives of the Grand Army marching side by side with or intermingled with men clad in the gray uniform that showed that they had fought in the armies of the confederacy, men who had tested one another's worth on the stricken fields, men who knew each that the other had been ready, when the hour of supreme appeal came, to show his worth by his endeavors, and men who now leave to their children and their children's children as a heritage of honor forever the memory of the great deeds alike by those who fought under Lee, for we, because of the very fact that the union triumphed, have the right to feel a little pride in the valor and devotion of those who valiantly fought against the stars in their courses and those who finally saw their efforts, their sufferings crowned by triumph. (Applause.)

And, my fellow citizens, I am sure we all realize the peculiar appropriateness of having the statue of Gen. Slocum received on behalf of the city of New York by its chief magistrate, whose father was Gen. Slocum's illustrious colleague. (Applause.) Surely there is need for me to say but little in emphasis of what has been set forth before I began to speak as to the prime significance of Gen. Slocum's career. He was a great soldier, a most gallant and able commander. Once the war was over, he turned as whole-heartedly to the pursuits of peace as he had during the war turned to the strife of arms. Gen. Slocum was one of those men on whose career we can dwell in its entirety. We are able to point to Gen. Slocum as the type of what a decent American citizen should be; as a man he was an example, in his family life an example, in his business relations honest and upright; public servant no less than a fearless and able soldier.

Two Sides of the Lesson.

Now, I want all you people to remember the two sides of the lesson taught by Gen. Slocum's life. A successful war for unrighteousness is the most dreadful of all things. It is the thing that sets back more than aught else the course of civilization. But no people worth preserving ever existed, nor will exist, that was not able to fight if the need arose (applause), and so with the individual. The man who possesses great ability and great courage unaccompanied by the moral sense, a courage and ability unguided by the stern purpose to do what is just and upright, that man is rendered by the fact of having the courage and the ability only so much the greater menace to the community in which he unfortunately dwells. (Loud applause.) We cannot afford, as a people, ever to forget for one moment that ability, far-sightedness, iron resolution, perseverance, willingness to do and dare are qualities to be admired only if they are put at the service of the right, at the service of decency avails in the least in the rough man who possesses those qualities and does not shape his course by a fundamental and unwavering moral principal is a menace to each and all of us; and thrice foolish, thrice wicked is the other man who condones his moral shortcomings because of his intellectual or physical strength and prowess. (Applause.)

That is one side. The other side is that no amount of good intention, no amount of sweetness in life, no amount of appreciation decency avails in the least in the rough work of the world, as we find it, unless back of the honesty of purpose, back of the decency of life and thought, lies the power that makes a man a man. (Applause.) It is true of the individual and it is true of the nation. It is to the last degree desirable I will put it stronger than that—it is absolutely essential that this nation, if it is to hold the position in the future that it has held in the past, must act, not only within but without its borders in a spirit of justice and large generosity toward all other peoples. (Applause.)

The surest way for a nation to invite disaster is to be opulent, aggressive and unarmed. (Laughter and applause.) Now, we are opulent, and I hope we will remain so. I trust that we shall never be aggressive unless aggression is not merely justified but demanded. (Applause.) Demanded either by our own self-respect or by the interests of mankind; and finally, remember that to be aggressive, above all to be aggressive in speech, and not be armed invites not merely disaster but the contempt of mankind. (Applause.)

Also Spoke to Sailors.

After the address the president and party walked across the street to the reviewing stand. There the president, the mayor and other officials reviewed the Grand Army parade, and then the president made a hurried dash to the Naval Young Men's Christian association. A rapid inspection of the building, the gift of Miss Helen M. Gould, was made, and then the president delivered an address, in which he said:

More and more our people are waking up to the need of a navy and in view of events happening all over the world, I think we can count on congress to continue to build up our navy. It certainly will, if I can persuade it. It is all important to have ships the best in hull, the best in armor and the best in armament of any nation in the world.

The sailors cheered the president as he finished his speech. He hastened to board a ferryboat for Jersey City. There his car was attached to a Pennsylvania railroad express and he left for Washington at 1:20 p. m.

My opinion was—and this opinion was shared by other naval officers, including Capt. Mahan—there would be no engagement, and that the Russians would be allowed to get to Vladivostok. I did not think the Japanese would risk an engagement on which depended their all."

HAS NOT DEMANDED $100,000,000 FROM FRANCE

PARIS, May 30.—The foreign office absolutely denies the rumor cabled from Paris and circulated in the United States that Dr. Motono, the Japanese minister, on behalf of his government, has demanded from France, through Foreign Minister Delcasse, the sum of $100,000,000 as damages for French breaches of neutrality in connection with the voyage of Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet.

No American Vessel Sunk.

TOKYO, May 30.—It now appears that the report of the sinking of an American vessel by the fleet of Admiral Rojestvensky grew out of the seizure of the British steamer Olhamia, bound for Japan, which was later retaken by Japanese warships.

YELLOW FEVER CAUSES DEATH ON THE ISTHMUS

Provision Is Made for Paving Streets of Panama City. Eight-Hour Work Day.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The administration office of the Isthmian canal commission has received the following cablegram from Gov. Magoon at Panama:

E. J. Bonesteel died yesterday. E. P. Thomas, American, employed at Georgana, taken sick with yellow fever on the 24th. Executive committee adopted resolutions today providing for the paving of the streets of Panama City as indispensible to sanitation of the isthmus; also adopted resolutions fixing eight-hour day for laborers and mechanics, commencing June 1.

In view of the announced decision of the Isthmian canal commission to enforce the eight-hour law on the canal work, Secretary Taft today stated the grounds upon which Attorney-General Moody had reached his decision on that important matter. It was to the effect that as the work of the canal construction, regardless of place, was being done by government labor, the eight-hour law must apply. However, it was held that this ruling did not apply to the Panama railroad, for although the stock of that concern is government-owned, it is really a private corporation and pays its own employes. Furthermore, the attorney general's opinion is that the eight-hour law applies only to the laborers and mechanics and does not affect the clerical force of the commission.

It is said that the contract providing for the employment of coolie labor was held up pending this decision, and will not be signed until Engineer Wallace has succeeded in reaching some agreement with the employers of the coolie labor to adjust the scale of labor prices to the eight-hour law decision. It is stated that the operations of this law will largely increase the expenses of canal building, and Secretary Taft has called upon Engineer Wallace for a close estimate of the additional expense for the information of congress.

BREAKS ELECTION VOW.

John Bradley Takes a Drink After a Score of Years of Abstinence.

After more than 20 years' abstinence, as the result of a pre-election pledge, John Bradley, who says he lives in Pittsburgh, fell from grace on Monday. He was given a hearing yesterday morning by Magistrate Harkins at the Allegheny central station on a charge of being drunk and disorderly on a street car.

Bradley told the magistrate that he lived in Allegheny in the 80s, when Mayor Peterson was elected, and being opposed to Peterson's election he vowed at the time never to take another drink if Peterson should win. He had stuck to his vow until Monday night. After quitting work at the Parkhouse mills about 6 p. m., he met some friends in lower Allegheny and took a drink. That drink fixed him and he says he knew nothing more until he awoke yesterday morning in his cell.

Bradley was fined $5 and costs which he paid out of the $80 he had when arrested.

DIPLOMATS SCOOP CORRESPONDENTS

Uncle Sam Gave World First News of Togo's Victory Through Its Consul.

HARRIS IS STAR REPORTER

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.

The first authentic news of the great naval battle in the orient was given to the world by the official dispatches to this government from its consular and diplomatic representatives. In this respect the service has demonstrated its efficiency, not only for gathering information regarding commerce and trade, but also as reporters of events. That our representatives in Japan were able to give news in advance of that from the correspondents was no doubt due to the fact that their dispatches were not censored and held up, as were those of the newspaper men.

From the outbreak of the Russian-Japanese war President Roosevelt has evinced an intense interest in the developments. He has had war maps prepared for his own use, by which he would be able to keep a record of the engagements and maneuvers, and, owing to the great interest of this country in the war and its outcome, he had the state department instruct all of our diplomatic and consular officers in the orient that they would be expected to report the news promptly to their government.

As the land engagements took place and the Japanese army made steady advances into Manchuria, the news of every movement reached the newspapers far in advance of the reports from our ministers and consuls. The latter were usually two or three days late in reporting any important phase of the war, and the president nearly always read the news in his morning paper before having it brought to him in the form of cables from our representatives.

Stirred Up Its Staff.

This was very unsatisfactory. The state department stirred up our consuls with a sharp stick and informed them they were too tardy in their reports. This action had the desired effect, and they became active. When Togo's fleet met the Russians, the first news came from Consul Charles B. Harris, at Nagasaki, who cabled the department that the Borodino and four other ships had been sunk. Later reports showed that eight Russian ships, two destroyers and one supply ship had been sent to the bottom, but the report of Consul Harris, while incomplete, was sufficient to show the heavy loss of the Russian forces.

Consul Harris' cable was soon followed by one from Minister Lloyd C. Griscom, at Tokyo, in which he gave further details. These reports were later supplemented by others, that kept the president and the state department well posted on the battle.

In the meantime, the censorship was strictly enforced by the Japanese officials, who refused to allow any of the press correspondents to send out the results of the engagement until they had been definitely verified. In this way the government dispatches were far in advance of the press cables, and from Washington all the world learned the first news of the crushing defeat of the Russian fleet.

Two Star Reporters.

Consul Harris was appointed to his post in 1897 by President McKinley. He comes from Indiana, where he was connected with the state agricultural experimental station. He is a scientific farmer, and not the sort of fellow one would look to as an active war correspondent. But he got the news in this case, and got it in first, which is the prime requisite of any correspondent.

Minister Griscom is a millionaire clubman from Philadelphia and he, too, distinguished himself by his prompt and full reports of the engagement. He and Mr. Harris will no doubt feel proud of the accomplishment of beating the experienced and capable newspaper correspondents from all over the world, who were gathered at Tokyo to report the great naval battle. BETTER PAY THAN UNCLE SAM

Assistant Postmaster Smiley of Allegheny Accepts a Corporation Position.

Charles A. Smiley, assistant postmaster of Allegheny, has tendered his resignation to Postmaster John Francies, to take effect today, and the resignation has been accepted.

When Mr. Francies assumed the duties of his office, on May 1, Mr. Smiley was appointed by him as assistant postmaster. On May 4 he tendered his resignation, to take effect on May 31. Mr. Smiley's reason for resigning is that he has accepted a position with a corporation at a much larger salary than that received as assistant postmaster.

Postmaster Francies expressed himself as sorry to part with Mr. Smiley, and says his resignation was entirely voluntary. A well-known Allegheny business man has been tendered the position made vacant by Mr. Smiley's resignation.

JAPANESE SEND AID TO INDIA'S SUFFERERS

SIMLA, BRITISH INDIA, May 30.—The Jiji Shimpo, a newspaper of Tokyo, has sent to Lord Curzon $5,000 for the relief of sufferers in the recent earthquakes, with an expression of sympathy from the people of Japan for those in India. "Her well-beloved ally," Lord Curzon in his reply gave expression to the Anglo-Indian admiration for Japanese chivalry and heroism, declaring that recent events would not fail to draw the two peoples closer together."

LOOMIS EXPLAINS SALT BONDS DEAL

Says His Letter to Russell Had Reference to Government Business.

NEW CHARGE AGAINST BOWEN

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.

Secretary Taft returned to Washington this morning and immediately resumed his investigation of the charges made against the official integrity of Francis B. Loomis, assistant secretary of state, by Herbert W. Bowen, American minister at Caracas. Mr. Taft had a talk with Nicholas Biddle, one of the correspondents of the New York Herald who visited Venezuela. Secretary Taft later stated that Mr. Biddle had said that Mr. Bowen had given him copies of certain documents bearing on the charges that Mr. Loomis had trafficked in Venezuelan claims.

Most important of all the documents was a letter from Mr. Loomis to W. W. Russell, then secretary of the American legation at Caracas. Secretary Taft said today that the text of this letter, as published, corresponds with the original found by Mr. Bowen in the American legation at Caracas when he succeeded Mr. Loomis there. Mr. Taft, speaking from memory, said he thought that the name of the man who originally owned the claim was Mercado. The letter said:

"My Dear Mr. Russell—Regarding the Malvine (Mercado) claim that I bought, you may tell the Venezuelan authorities that I am willing to dispose of it for one-half of its face value; of this, I want 50 per cent in cash and the rest in salt bonds at 80. These bonds are now quoted at 85."

Mr. Loomis has entered a detailed explanation of this letter. First of all, he says it was in a box in a safe at the legation, and that Mr. Bowen opened the box and kept the contents to use against him. Mr. Loomis then states that the government of Spain several years ago sold to Venezuela a torpedo boat for 400,000 bolivars, and that Venezuela gave as security for payment $1,000,000 worth of Venezuelan salt bonds at par. When the 400,000 bolivars had been paid for the boat it was decided, with the approval of the state department at Washington, that the surplus of the 1,000,000 bolivars worth of salt bonds should be handed over to the American minister at Caracas, and that he should pay with them certain claims against Venezuela which had been already adjudicated. Mr. Loomis states that this was done, and that 160,000 bolivars in salt bonds were paid to one Mercado (Malvino), a business man and promoter in Venezuela; that 60,000 bolivars in salt bonds were paid to the German railroad for a similarly adjudicated claim, and that other minor claims were likewise satisfied. This was simply a transaction for Venezuela by the American minister.

SEEING THINGS IN AUTOS.

Greater Pittsburgh Trips in Big Machines to Be Introduced in About Two Weeks.

Seeing Greater Pittsburgh in automobile buses will be the novel attraction offered to visitors this summer. The Auto Traffic Company of America has purchased from the manufacturers for the Park Auto Company of Pittsburgh, three big electric touring cars, with a seating capacity of 20 persons each, which will be put in daily use about June 15. A regular schedule of trips has been arranged, and at 10 o'clock every morning the buses will start on their trips of inspection, each bus making from three to five trips a day.

S. J. MacFarren has been the moving spirit in the Auto Traffic Company since its organization one year ago. His company will equip and manage the plant of the Park Auto Company and operate the buses for a percentage of the gross receipts.

DOES NOT KNOW CHAPMAN.

Secretary McKee of Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Writes to St. Louis That He Is Unknown.

KANSAS CITY, MO., May 30.—(Special.)—E. E. Chapman, who was introduced as a "prominent manufacturer from Pittsburgh, who knows all about gas," and has been delivering somewhat sensational speeches at the natural gas meetings in the different wards, is unknown to Pittsburgh, according to a letter just received by a city official from Logan McKee, secretary of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce.

"A careful search of the directory and telephone books give no such a person as E. E. Chapman," writes Mr. McKee. Chapman, instead of confining himself to the subject of gas, broadly intimated the council had been bribed into passing the McGowan ordinance.

Stop Boys' Buggy Ride.

Detectives Egan and Cole yesterday arrested M. Owens and Frank Brown for taking a horse and buggy standing in front of a Wylie avenue restaurant. Two girls drove up to the cafe and left the rig hitched. The boys jumped into the rig and drove off. The women notified the liveryman, who called up the detective bureau, and the boys were caught as they were turning into the Grant boulevard for a drive.

TRIUMPH OF JAPAN WILL PROFIT BRITAIN

England Will Have Free Hand in Far East, Says Andrew D. White.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ITHACA, N. Y., May 30.—Commenting on the effect of the Japanese naval victory, Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Russia, said tonight: "These Japanese victories have significance from the fact they must for a long time weaken the prestige and power of Russia in Asia, giving a more free hand to Great Britain than she had yet had in Asiatic matters.

"Still another and even more important consequence of these defeats is that Russia must be so occupied in restoring her army and navy and also in meeting the demands of her people for reforms at home she will have much less influence in Europe than formerly. As to influence within the boundaries of Russia, the defeats will undoubtedly force her to make great concessions to her people.

"All Russian subjects who do any thinking at all will be disgusted at the failure of the autocracy and their bureaucratic systems, and while no complete overthrow of the Romanoffs is to be expected, and while free institutions like those enjoyed in the countries of Western Europe and the United States can hardly be granted to a people so unfit to exercise them, there will no doubt be great concessions, out of which in time there will be developed a moderate degree of constitutional liberty.

"But we must not expect a very rapid improvement of the Russian masses. The most important condition to such improvement is the creation of a vast system of schools; and, as for a considerable time to come enormous sums must be expended in restoring the army and navy, little will be left for such a general education of the people.

"As to the effect of these recent victories on the termination of the war they can hardly fail to impress both the governing classes and the people with the need of peace, and doubtless a similar effect will be exercised on their creditors, so that chances of an early peace would seem to be very greatly increased."

LARKIN REFUSES TO PAY FOR TWO DRESS SUITS

Detectives Rent Clothes to Attend Banquet, but Bills Are Turned Down by the Controller.

City Controller Larkin does not favor the idea of the city paying for the rental of dress suits by city employes to attend banquets, even though the function may be under the auspices of the city itself. The controller's views on this unique proposition were ascertained the other day when bills reached him from two city employes for dress suits which were hired to attend the banquet given by the city in honor of the rivers and harbors committee of congress, at the Hotel Schenley, on May 9.

Each bill was for the sum of $2.50. The controller promptly refused to pay them.

"They must have thought I was asleep," said the controller, as he wrote his veto across the face of the bills. "The city is not buying or renting clothes for city employes or anybody else to go to banquets."

The controller declined to give the names of the two city employes, but from another source it was learned that they are members of the bureau of detectives. They were detailed to attend the banquet and were supposed to be on duty. Some of the detectives own dress suits and others do not, and it is claimed that these two particular detectives did not possess "glad rags" and thought the controller ought to reimburse them.

DETECTIVES' QUICK WORK.

Arrest a Man Through a Description of His Wife's Raincoat—Taken Back to Wheeling.

A telegram to Superintendent of Detectives McQuaide from Chief of Police W. M. Clemens of Wheeling yesterday asked him to look out for and arrest Clarence Lyons on a charge of false pretense. There was but little of a description of Lyons, but the message said he was accompanied by his wife, who wore a long gray raincoat.

Detectives Cole and Egan met a man and woman coming out of a Smithfield restaurant a little later, the woman wearing a gray raincoat. They stopped the man and asked him his name. When he said he was Lyons they arrested him, and the woman in tears, followed to headquarters.

Chief Clemens was notified at Wheeling and he came here at once and took Lyons back with him at 5 o'clock. He said the prisoner was an agent for a New York publication and had secured $50 from a district representative in Wheeling and left that town before paying it back. Lyons is 40 years old and lives in New York. Mrs. Lyons is still here.

The plan of laying a little aside every pay day at Four per cent Compound Interest with the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, Smithfield street and Fourth avenue, is availed of by over 47,000 persons—men and women occupying all positions in life. It's a good habit to foster.

WESTINGHOUSE INTERESTS SECURE LARGE CONTRACTS

New Equipment Are to Be Shipped to South American, British and South African Points.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The Westinghouse interests have received another batch of good-sized foreign contracts for various equipments which are to be shipped to South American, British and South African points.

The Santos Development Company, a British capitalized concern, which controls the electric lighting situation in Santos, Brazil, has decided to remodel its plant and install Westinghouse machinery. The existing system is to be changed from pressures of 2,000 volts and 110 volts to 3,000 volts and 220 volts, respectively. Power will be generated by means of gas engines and produced gas, which method is expected to prove more economical than steam.

The British list of contracts includes one for several cars and motor equipments for Bowenmouth Corporation Electric Traction system; generators for the municipal lighting plant at Greenock, and other equipment for Cardiff corporation power station. There have also been secured a number of medium-sized orders for other English, Welsh and Scotch systems.

Among the South African orders received is one for several motors to be installed in the Village Deep and new Modderfontein mines.

Wednesday, May 31, 1905.

In his speech at Brooklyn yesterday at the dedication of the Slocum statue President Roosevelt improved the occasion by some incisive remarks upon the duty of national defense. He got off some pithy aphorisms of the kind that stick, such as "the surest way for a nation to invite disaster is to be opulent, aggressive and unarmed;" also "a first-class navy is the surest and cheapest guarantee of peace."

Concurrently with the receipt at St. Petersburg of definite news of the annihilation of the second Pacific fleet, the committee of ministers having in charge plans for the constitution of the national assembly got busy again and it is intimated that the government will try to take the edge off the disaster by an early announcement of a large installation of reform. Japanese arms appear to be a more effective reform agency than agitation at home.

The magnitude of life insurance interests is impressively brought out in statistics compiled by the Insurance Press and just made public. During 1904 $372,000,000 were paid out by the various American companies, all but about $20,000,000 in this country. Nearly $30,000,000 were paid out in Pennsylvania and over $3,000,000 here in Pittsburgh. It is certainly strange that such a vast interstate business should be outside of national jurisdiction, and this anomaly will not endure.

The result of the ocean race for the kaiser's cup was a victory for the Atlantic, which, under Capt. Barr's handling, easily beat the German boat. American superiority in building and sailing fast boats is demonstrated every time the matter is put to the test. If as a nation we are deficient in merchant marine it is not because we do not know how to build and sail ships, but because the interest does not receive the encouragement which other maratime countries extend to their shipping.

Peace talk has promptly revived but it will be remembered that this was the case after the battle of Mukden and nothing came of it. The terms outlined in the Washington dispatches telling about the Japanese minister's conference with the president, do not contain much promise of peace. Russia may decide to stand pat rather than pay an indemnity and might find it cheaper to do so. Even if whipped out of Manchuria altogether she will gather strength as her forces are pushed back upon their base, and west of Lake Baikal her position is practically impregnable. It is not safe for Japan to be too exacting.

There is a snarl between Maine and New Brunswick over the use of the St. John river, which for a portion of its course is an international boundary and the matter is now the subject of correspondence between our government and that of Great Britain. It appears that American lumbermen have built large piers on the American side from which are swung booms to catch logs, and interests on the New Brunswick side complain of these as an unjustifiable obstruction of the river and have been threatening to cut them away by force. Considering the international character of the river this complaint seems to have foundation, but joint action will be necessary to settle it. It is announced that at the next session of congress Senator Hale of Maine will move the reference of the matter to a special Anglo-American commission.

Admiral Togo was doubtless well served by his scouting service, but the physical conditions were such that he could hardly have missed his chance. In order to reach Vladivostok the Russian fleet had to enter the sea of Japan either from the east through the channels between the northern islands of Japan, or from the south through the straits of Formosa. Admiral Togo was so posted that he had short interior lines of approach to either point, and Japanese preparations doubtless thoroughly covered both routes. It is questionable whether Admiral Rojestvensky could have done better than put his fate to the touch as he did. His mission was to fight the Japanese and he met his fate in doing his duty. There is no room for belief that any other Russian fleet under any other commander could have done any better, and there is not a naval power in the world that can feel confident of the result in an encounter with the Japanese.

Dewey Draws the Moral.

The moral which Admiral Dewey draws from the naval destruction of Russia is that "we should not cease to build up our navy to the point required for the adequate defense of our country and its interests." It does not require expert knowledge to perceive the force of that conclusion. The balance of power in Europe which has been maintained at the cost of numerous wars, is overthrown by the collapse of Russian power and all the lessons of history are mistaken if this will not mean a prolonged disturbance until a new equilibrium has been established.

The period of repose which Europe has enjoyed since the consolidation of the German empire has been due to the even balance of power maintained by two counteracting alliances—the triple alliance of Germany, Austria and Italy, and the dual alliance of France and Russia. The collapse of Russia overthrows this balance and the states of the triple alliance have a liberty of action such as they did not enjoy before. France is left in a state of isolation, the more dangerous since her population remains almost stationary, while that of Germany rapidly increases and is now over twenty millions in excess. "The French lose a battle every day," said Moltke, alluding to the fact that every day 3,150 fewer children were born in France than in Germany.

These circumstances explain the growth of intimate relations between France and England, and the policy of formal alliance is now being strongly advocated in both countries by leading publicists. This is, however, but one phase of the intense diplomatic activity now going on and which seeks to prevent the outbreak of another period of European war by the creation of a new balance of power. Fortunately for us, we are in a position in which we can stand aloof from all such complications and can guard our national interests through our own strength if we make due preparation. We have no right to endanger the cause of peace by a weakness of national armament which would offer continual provocation to aggression. By adopting the policy which Admiral Dewey has set forth, we shall purchase national insurance at an exceptionally low rate.

In Honor of Soldier Dead.

Memorial day exercises yesterday were not strikingly unlike former celebrations. Veterans of the civil war and of the Spanish war were conspicuous in their services of love and veneration for dead comrades, and the patriotism of the American people found loving expression in various ceremonies throughout the country. Renewed attention was called to the rapidly thinning ranks of the men who actually participated in the civil struggle. It has been nearly half a century since that great conflict closed and each year succeeding leaves the veteran ranks thinner. The survivors of that war are fast joining their heroic brethren on "fame's eternal camping grounds."

One thought is uppermost in this connection, and the services in connection with yesterday's observation of Memorial day reveal the seriousness with which it is regarded. Will the present and succeeding generations keep alive this honored and holy custom of annual memorials for the soldier dead? The bitterness of sectional feeling is being rapidly obliterated. Yesterday in southern cemeteries younger men of the north stood side by side with southern veterans, and in northern cemeteries the southerner of this generation laid a tribute of love upon the northern soldier's grave. The very spirit of progress and development of the present day is working out this unification of the sections. Will it also work out of the hearts of the newer generations of Americans the sense of love and honor for the heroes of the war?

There is some reason to believe that Memorial day exercises are losing somewhat the spontaneity that marked them in other years. May it not be that in forgetting the hates and bitterness of the strife, which is a blessed consummation, we may be in our national brotherhood also losing a keen sense of the tie that binds us to those men who gave their lives for what they believed to be right?

Rise in Japan's Financial Credit.

The rise in the financial credit of Japan keeps pace with the rise in her military and naval prestige. Last Saturday before Togo had won his victory the new 4½ per cent Japanese bonds sold in New York at 86, a discount of 1⅝ per cent from the subscription price of a few weeks ago. On the unfounded rumor early last week that the Russian fleet had eluded the enemy safely, these bonds declined to 85½. On Monday morning when the news was confirmed that Japan had been victorious the price of these bonds immediately jumped to 90, and held the gain. Considering that these bonds bear only 4½ per cent, and that they are subject to redemption at par on or before February 15, 1910, their appreciation in market value must be very gratifying to the little island kingdom.

The next movement of Japan in the money market will be awaited with almost as much interest as the next movement in its military campaign. Each great victory in this war has been followed by a new issue of bonds on better terms. Down to date war loans aggregating $450,000,000 have been floated, four being internal loans and three external loans. As government bond issues go, the maturities have been short, and a provision has been inserted in each of the external loans for their redemption before maturity. Doubt has been expressed in financial circles as to whether Japan, in the event of a declaration of peace, will be able to exact a large cash indemnity from Russia. Evidently it was with some expectation of securing a large cash payment as the price of peace that the financial advisers of Japan inserted the provision for the redemption of the various loans before maturity. In any event, advantage will no doubt be taken of present favorable conditions to float a new loan.

Japan has certainly been as fortunate in the selection of her financial advisers as she has been in the selection of military and naval instructors. While it is true that France not only carries her own public debt among her own people but has invested billions in securities of other countries, it remains a fact that London is the great international market, and it was the London financiers who handled the external loans of Japan. M. Neymarck, the eminent financial economist of Paris, places among the prime factors bearing upon the value of state securities "the financial organization of the market," and in London and New York, where the great bulk of Japanese loans has been floated, the machinery for handling public securities has reached the highest degree of perfection. A few years ago not one in a million investors in the United States knew the market value of Japanese securities. Today the continuous fluctuations in the market between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. are instantaneously flashed over a thousand wires into as many banks and brokerage offices throughout the United States, and thousands of institutions and individuals are directly interested therein.

Two Sides to the Question.

In Salt Lake City on Monday evening Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, the distinguished actress, deplored in vigorous language the decadence of the American theater through the baneful proscription which has been established by the business control of a group of speculators. On the same day in Wilkesbarre, Pa., the pastor of a large congregation confessed to his people that there was no legal way of preventing the appearance in a local theater of a woman notorious only through the evil of her life and her recent connection with a sensational murder trial in which she was the defendant. Mrs. Fiske doubtless feels that the arbitrary control of the theater bookings of the country is the chief evil against which the stage struggles today. The Wilkesbarre incident indicates that the question of what and who shall be put upon the stage has more than one phase. Mrs. Fiske is doubtless shut out of Wilkesbarre. Nan Patterson and her unsavory record are not. The conjunction of the incidents should not be without lessons, however. Mrs. Fiske may not be able to secure theaters in the principal cities to exhibit her art, but she can help drive the Nan Pattersons out from the shelter of an honorable profession.

It is the Wilkesbarre incident, in truth, that should disturb Mrs. Fiske more than even her personal resentment of the fact that there is no theater in Salt Lake City in which she may appear. The public will in no small degree hold the acting profession to account for the plunge downward in morals and decency that the Patterson woman's debut will illustrate. Actors and actresses, we will grant for argument's sake, are well nigh powerless to remedy the managerial oppression of the theater, but they can cure this other evil that is so noxious and so dangerous. They can make it so hot for the spurious and the unworthy seeker for stage notoriety that he or she will be driven into obscurity. Players who want and expect public confidence and esteem should make this latest and dirtiest scandal of the stage the subject for combined attack. We may struggle along a while without an independent theater in every city, and may be cheated out of Mrs. Fiske's art, but Mrs. Fiske and her fellow-players cannot survive long the invasion of the theater by so-called actresses of the Nan Patterson stripe.

When the people of Philadelphia progress beyond the point of going to mass meetings, and then staying away from the polls they will get what they want in the way of government. And the same holds true of every city.

Secretary Hay declares that he will cut out all social and pleasure dates from his European sojourn. He doubtless intends this to include both the Moulin Rouge and Monte Carlo.

What the governor of Missouri said to the mayor of Philadelphia was less liquid, but more satisfying than that other interchange of civilities that has become famous.

His face is set in mirthless smirk,
It's the smile that won't come off;
He's been upon the links at work,
It isn't fun, it's golf.

If Togo has captured Rojestvensky he will hardly look up the American newspaper pictures as a means of identifying his man.

The returns are not yet all in, but it would seem on the face of things that Manchuria will hereafter be a solid Japanese ward.

Unfortunately the Japanese naval victory came too late for the commencement essays to tell us how it all happened.

The trouble with Norway and Sweden in the pending divorce proceedings is that both seem to want alimony.

Japan naturally declares that she is too busy chasing the enemy to talk peace terms.

If "peace and honor" are still within Russia's reach she had better take it.

Monday was a great day for both the Atlantic ocean and the Atlantic yacht.

War's alarms and war's memories mixed in the news of yesterday.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

It's lonesome—sort o' lonesome—it's a Sund'y day to me,
It 'pears like—more'n any day I nearly ever see!
Yit, with the Stars and Stripes above, a-flutterin' in the air,
On every soldier's grave I'd love to lay a lily there.

They say, though, Decoration days is generally observed
Most everywheres—especially by soldier boys that's served—
But me and mother's never went—we seldom git away—
In p'int o' fact, we're allus home on Decoration day.

They say the old boys marches through the streets in columns grand,
A-follerin' the old war tunes they're playin' on the band—
And citizens all j'inin' in—and little children, too—
All marchin' under shelter of the old Red, White and Blue.

With roses! roses! roses!—everywhere in the town!
And crowds o' little girls in white, jest fairly loaded down!—
Oh, don't the boys know it, from their camp across the hills?—
Don't they see their comrades comin' and the old flag wavin' still?

Oh, can't they hear the bugle and the rattle of the drum?
Ain't they no way under heavens they can recollect us some?
Ain't they no way we can coax 'em, through the roses, jest to say
They know that ev'ry day on earth's their Decoration day?

We've tried that—me and mother—where Ellis takes his rest,
In the orchurd—in his uniform, and hands across his breast,
And the flag he died fer, smilin' and a-rippilin' in the breeze
Above his grave—and over that—the robins in the trees!

And yit it's lonesome—lonesome!—it's a Sund'y day to me,
It 'pears like—more'n any day I nearly ever see!
Still, with the Stars and Stripes above, a-flutterin' in the air,
On every soldier's grave I'd love to lay a lily there.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

It did seem like a Sund'y day yesterday, and more so than usual, because the day was quiet, the light subdued, and the air soft and balmy—as though the heavens were in sympathy with the hearts of those who devoted the day to the purposes for which it was specially set apart.

And now and again the clouds lowered as though the heavens recalled the sorrows of the battlefield and prison pen, and wept with those whose tears could not be stayed.

But the showers dampened not the ardor of the comrades and the children, and cheered and brightened the flowers they planted on the graves as tokens of the fond and loving memory in which they hold the heroic dead.

Yes, it was a glorious Decoration day—glorious for those who observed it as such, but a little disappointing to some who only observe it as a sporting day, a day of roystering gaiety. But it does not matter much if these were disappointed and drenched more or less, for it was not their day.

There really seemed to be more of right sort of feeling in the air yesterday than has been noticeable of late years. Something seemed to have rightly stirred the spirit of patriotism in the people. The flowers of spring were never brighter, nor the children sweeter, nor the veterans more enthusiastic.

These are the elements necessary to a successful observation of Decoration day.

* * *

The whole country is all the better for the faithful observance of Decoration day in spirit as well as in form.

When thus observed it serves as a national Sabbath, a day of wholesome rest and recreation, for which the people are all the better. They not only feel better for having imbibed deeply of the spirit of the occasion, but are better because of their association with patriots and those who proved their love for their country by offering themselves to save it.

And then—the presence of the flag everywhere, the flag whose presence cheers the heart and makes strong the arms of those who are worthy of its protection. Everyone is all the better for uncovering when the flag goes by, and better still for marching under its folds to the music of "Red, White and Blue."

And the children will be all the better, much the better, for the part they have taken in the exercises of the day. They have been impressed by what they have seen and heard, and more particularly by having been a part of the occasion itself. Many of them may not have been able to understand and to comprehend fully, yet there were impressions made on them that time cannot efface.

The characters of men and women are largely determined by the impressions made upon their youthful minds and hearts. Many of these are made before they are able to understand and to comprehend the why and the wherefore, or the meaning thereof.

Therefore, let the children play prominent parts in our memorial exercises, for we will not long be here to lead them.

* * *

The part taken in memorial exercises by the public schools is most commendable and highly profitable withal. Indeed there is no other school day in the whole year that is so profitable as the day devoted to the collection and dedication of the flowers to be used for the decoration of soldiers' graves.

And yet the managers of some schools do not think it profitable to devote a day or even half a day to this purpose.

The effect of this beautiful lesson was sadly marred in Allegheny and part of Pittsburgh by orders making last Friday afternoon flower day instead of Monday, the day preceding Decoration day.

This order was issued because some of those in authority thought there would be less loss of time by running these exercises in with the closing exercises of the week. They argued that if Monday was observed as flower day, and yesterday as a holiday there would practically be two days lost.

Lost! When the lessons of these two days do more to fit boys and girls to become patriotic, noble men and women than the lessons of a score of other days.

And then this order disarranged the plans of the Grand Army of the Republic to such an extent that the general effect was greatly marred.

Let us hope that this may never occur again, and we have good reasons for expecting that it never will, for both the Grand Army of the Republic and the school authorities agree that it was a mistake.

* * *

Fortunately all the schools in Pittsburgh were not handicapped by this order, particularly schools in the East End, and these feel that they were richly repaid for sticking to the usual custom of making the day before Decoration day flower day.

Those who witnessed or took part in the exercises at the Belmar school on Monday morning are all willing to testify that it was a day well spent.

The exercises consisted of songs and recitations by the scholars, all of which were rendered in a manner both creditable and satisfactory.

In addition to these were addresses by the Rev. E. L. Eaton of Allegheny; Erasmus Wilson of The Gazette; the Rev. C. E. Byram, the Rev. W. S. Miller, and members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The day and the exercises will long be remembered by all who were fortunate enough to be present, and its effect upon the minds and hearts of those who were a part of the occasion will be far-reaching and ever for the good.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The annual May party which Assemblyman "Tim" McManus gives to the boys and girls in his district on the West Side, was a record-breaker this year, both in enthusiasm, numbers of children and bands of music. McManus started his party from his house in West Forty-ninth street, and flanked by some of the old guard of Tammany Hall, they set off at 10 o'clock, 7,000 children in line. The "Queen of the May" and the "King" had been duly crowned and escorted to a carriage. The parade marched through West Side streets to Central park, where they had the large lawns about Eightieth street for the day. At the head of the procession was the Catholic Protectory band of 80 pieces, and following came 250 flower girls. Then the "queen" and "king" followed, and after them a number of girls carrying the Maypole. The children marched in fours. There were six bands in line, numbering 350 pieces, all told. There were three large vanloads of refreshments sent to the park ahead of the children. There were sandwiches by the thousands, candies by the hundred weight, lemonade by the scores of gallons, and ice cream. Under the seat of one of the vans, it was loudly rumored, were two cases of wickerware containing refreshments for those who worked for the children. In the park various games were played. There was baseball between nines from the different schools in the neighborhood, Maypole dances by the girls, and all sorts of other games. All the boys and most of the girls were colored caps and most of them carried flags.

Time to Tear "L's" Away.

Contractor John B. McDonald today declared himself to be unalterably opposed to the plans now under discussion by the board of rapid transit commissioners providing for the construction of new elevated structures between those now standing in Second avenue, Third avenue, the Bowery, Park row and along the present route now followed from Chatham square to the Battery.

"My proposals for building new subways were based," said he, "on what I believed was a common understanding that no more elevated routes were to be laid out or sanctioned on the island. In these days we should rather be considering the feasibility of tearing down the elevated roads than the construction of new ones. This is the era of modern transportation methods, as the subway comprehends the scheme."

Some School Fads to Remain.

According to present plans the board of education will be called upon to consider the question of "fads and frills," and the changes in the course of study at the meeting on June 14. The board of superintendents, which, under the charter, alone has power to recommend changes, has about completed its report, and it will be referred to the studies committee of the board of education, which will report at the board meeting on June 14. While there will be a number of modifications made in the course, the so-called "fads" will not be curtailed. It is evident that the parents want the full day and the "fads." The board of education will not act counter to their expressed wishes.

Coiffure Proves Its Worth.

In a collision between a trolley car and an automobile in which she was riding, Mrs. Caroline Laura Schumacher was thrown out and described a somersault in the air, landing on her head and back on the stone pavement. Those who saw the accident thought the woman was killed, and that her skull was not fractured was probably due to the fact that her heavy coiffure cushioned the blow. Ambulance Surgeon Hill of the Hudson street hospital found the woman to be suffering from shock and a lacerated wound on the head. He dressed the wound and then Mrs. Schumacher insisted on going on with the original outing.

Flags Too Heavy for Aged Veterans.

Decoration day was made notable in New York by two big parades—one in Manhattan and one in the Bronx. In the city proper 16,000 men marched in the parade. Veterans of many battles and men now in active military service were seen side by side with youths about to follo win the footsteps of their fathers and grandfathers. Forty-nine Grand Army posts were represented, coming from Manhattan and the Bronx. For the first time the headquarters colors were not borne by Grand Army men, as the heavy poles and flags were too much of a burden for the aging veterans. Maj.-Gen. Roe of the national guard therefore detailed three corporals of the First battery to the headquarters' colors and hereafter Sons of Veterans will carry them.

Actors Must Now Keep Moving.

"Don't loiter on the Rialto" is the order the police are enforcing with vigor today. For McAdoo was out last night. And McAdoo found the sidewalks from Forty-second street to Thirty-ninth street crowded with persons who would not move on. Then the commissioner hunted up the patrolman on post and said things to him. After which the crowd was induced to melt away. Today, by order of McAdoo, two extra men are on duty at Broadway and Forty-second street and will stay there until the loafer nuisance is thoroughly abated.

THE ATLANTIC

Winner of the Ocean Race.

The Atlantic, in winding the great race, has fulfilled the expectations of thousands of her admirers who had picked her to win long before the race started. She had been the prime favorite even over the Endymion, the record holder, the Hamburg, one of Watson's fastest boats; the fleet yawl Altair, and the powerful ship-rigged yacht Valhalla.

The Atlantic is a three-masted schooner owned by William Marsnall and skippered by Capt. Charles Barr, who was confident of winning the trans-Atlantic race for the $5,000 gold cup offered by the German emperor. The Atlantic has also broken all records previously made by sailing vessels, including that made by her competitor, the Endymion, in 1900, of 13 days, 20 hours and 26 minutes to the Needles on the Isle of Wight, the best record ever made before.

The Endymion was regarded as a likely candidate for the kaiser's cup because she held the transatlantic sailing record of 13 days, 20 hours and 26 minutes from Sandy Hook to the Needles, on the Isle of Wight. "Power reveals itself in work done," was the slogan of her supporters, and they were confident that if the Endymion could repeat the performance no other boat would be able to do any better, considering the fact that the Endymion was the first boat to break the record made by the Henrietta in 1866.

Laurels Won by Capt. Barr.

It is evident that the old veteran sea dog, Capt. Barr, the winner of so many cup defender races, and who has now won for himself an undying reputation as the most skillful skipper that ever sailed the main, finding himself some murky morning trailing along behind several of his competitors, set his sharp nautical wits to work and accomplished a nautical miracle. At any rate, by some hook or crook he sneaked by the Hamburg, the Altair and the Endymion, crowded on every inch of the Atlantic's 22,000 square feet of canvas and drove, drove, reeling off the knots at wonderful speed.

Capt. Charles Barr, the skipper of the victorious American-built yacht Atlantic, was born at Gourock, Scotland, July 11, 1864, and spent his boyhood on the rocky coast of the sea, where he learned, naturally enough, the rudiments of seamanship. There came out a story in one of the London yachting journals a little before the international races in 1901, in which it was prophesied that should the British champion sail down to defeat again, some consolation would be found in the fact that the successful defender would have been sailed by "one who was reared" by ourselves—the bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. This was Charles Barr, the victorious skipper of the Columbia, who two years later was destined to beat his old command with the new national yacht Reliance.

Since the early 90s Barr has been a full-fledged citizen of the United States, and it is as an American that he wishes to be considered, and it is for America that he has won his great victories and this last greatest triumph.

Conditions of the Contest.

The trans-Atlantic yacht race for the cup offered by the German emperor, which finishes at the Lizard, was begun off Sandy Hook lightship at noon on Wednesday, May 17, in a thick fog. Eleven yachts started, including eight American boats, two English and one German. They crossed the line in approximately the following order, there being some difference of opinion, because several of the yachts were very close together: The Atlas, Hildegarde, Atlantic, Endymion, Hamburg (German), Thistle, Fleur de Lys, Sunbeam (English), Apache, Utowana and Valhalla (English).

The race started on this side most inauspiciously. On the original day set for the start, May 16, one of the thickest fogs settled on the coast that has been seen this year. It rolled in about Sandy Hook early in the morning and hung heavily the entire day. The yachts, anchored in the Horseshoe awaiting the start, were completely isolated from each other, so densely did the mist envelope them. The start was set for 2:15 o'clock, but after waiting patiently until 3 o'clock for the weather to clear, the committee was obliged to postpone the start until noon the next day.

The race just completed is unique in yachting annals, not only for its long distance, but for its lack of handicapping conditions. The only essential requirement made was that the yachts should be of not less than 80 tons burden. Any kind of rig was accepted, and as a result nearly every type of sailing vessel from a full-rigged ship to a yawl was entered. Time was taken from the starting gun, which boomed out at Sandy Hook at 12:15 o'clock on May 17, and there was no time allowance. All the auxiliary boats were obliged to remove their propellers before starting. It was a free-for-all, get-there-as-best-you-can race.

The presentation of prizes, the gold cup for the winner and less valuable prizes for the second, third and fourth yachts, will be made by Emperor William in person to the respective owners at the beginning of the Kiel regatta, which opens late in June.

Five of the competing yachts, namely, the Atlantic, Endymion, Atlas, Hildegarde and Hamburg, have entered for the emperor's Dover to Heligoland race, on June 17, and several will also seek honors in the Kiel regatta.

The Decorative Daisies.

In many of the northern state nature furnishes for June use a very decorative flower in the white daisies.

How beautiful these daisies are, even if they have crowded out the grass of the meadows to the despair of the owners. They yield a rich harvest to the eye of all discerning beholders, and may be carried indoors in unstinted abundance. But they should not be crowded into jars and vases. Out of doors, when seen to best advantage, they are sufficiently separated for each flower to reveal its beauty.—House Beautiful.

THE SOLDIERS' RECESSIONAL.

Down from the choir with feebled step and slow
Singing their brave recessional they go,
Gray, broken, choristers of war,
Bearing aloft before their age-dimmed eyes,
As 'twere their cross for sign of sacrifice,
The flags which they in battle bore,—

Down from the choir where late their hoarse throats sang
Till all the sky-arched vast cathedral rang
With echoes of their rough-made song,
Where roared the organ's deep artillery,
And screamed the slender pipe's dread minstrelsy
In fierce debate of right and wrong,

Down past the altar, bright with flowers they tread
The aisles 'neath which in sleep their comrades dead
Keep bivouac after their red strife,
Their own ranks thinner growing as they march
Into the shadows of the narrow arch
Which hides the lasting from this life.

Soon, soon, will pass the last gray pilgrim through
Of that thin line in surplices of blue
Winding as some tired stream asea,
Soon, soon, will sound upon our listning ears
His last song's quaver as he disappears
Beyond our answering litany;

And soon the faint antiphonal refrain,
Which memory repeats in sweetened strain,
Will come, as from some far cloud-shore;
Then, for a space the hush of unspoke prayer,
And we who've knelt shall rise with heart to dare
The thing in peace they sang in war.
—John Finley, in Scribner's.

WEALTH OF NEGROES

How Georgia Colored Men Have Prospered.

"Between the southern negro as property and the southern negro as a property owner worthy of account, American progress has set its milestones thick and strongly marked, says a writer in Tom Watson's Magazine. Yet, as mere years go, the time has been short indeed for a transition of meanings so vast. To illustrate clearly that particular phase of the negro's progress, the adjustment of his relations to the land and his steadily advancing gains in real estate and other property holdings, it will serve best to take the state of Georgia and present certain comparative data relating to the situation here. Georgia has the largest area of any state east of the Mississippi river, and in her great sweep of 59,475 square miles, from the Appalachian mountains to the Atlantic ocean, exhibits the greatest diversity of soil, climate and physical features, all of which must be conceded to affect negro life and industry. The state has the largest negro population of any in the Union, her colored people numbering 1,034,813, or a trifle under 50 per cent of the entire population. Observe that in this state are congregated more than one-eighth as many blacks as are scattered throughout the remaining half a hundred states and territories of the Union.

Greater Independence in Country.

"In the country we must look for the best average of the negro's home, his domestic life and virtues, as well as his industry and thrift. In a canvass of 26 typical counties of the state, the following table was established to show the average size of the farm lots among negro proprietors:

Classified Size—	Per Cent of Total Owners.
Under 10 acres	30.5
10 or under 40 acres	27.0
40 or under 100 acres	21.8
100 or under 200 acres	12.3
200 or under 500 acres	6.8
500 acres or over	1.6

"The 26 counties canvassed represent the majority of negro holdings in the state, and the average here established may fairly be taken as that of the state at large, or, indeed, of the agricultural south. The fact that a very large proportion of the farms are so limited in size as to amount only to gardens, or, in negro parlance, 'patches,' augurs well rather than ill, for it means many small proprietors instead of merely a few large ones and the rest all renters or day laborers. Since out of 900,265 black people in the state 10 years of age or over who are engaged in gainful occupations, almost two-thirds are employed in some line of agricultural work, is it not well that the million acres owned by negroes should be distributed in small holdings? It is easy to deduce from this the manifest decline of the tenant system of farming. To be sure, these one-acre, or even 10-acre farms will seldom support the owner, though he may have the smallest family, or none at all, but serve as sources of partial support to those with supplementary occupations. Yet in many cases, these little plots of ground will grow to goodly farms within a few years. The same story has been traced a thousand times in the past quarter of a century.

Increase of Property in Cities.

"It will be remarked, also, that the negro's town and city property is increasing greatly. In 1880 the assessed value of such property was $1,201,902, or 29 per cent of their entire state property, while in 1902 it is $4,239,422, which is close to 29 per cent of the state's aggregate. Thus while agriculture gave the freedman his start in self-maintenance, and is still his chief dependence, yet paths of employment and sources of revenue in cities are being discovered by him more and more as the years go by and his education progresses.

"In 1875 the assessed value of the household and kitchen furniture owned by all the negroes in the state, then numbering between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 souls, was only $21,196, or something like 4 cents worth to each individual. But in 1902 the assessed value of the same class of property was $1,988,541, or a trifle over the value of $1 50 to each colored man, woman and child in the state. Upon this phase of development and progress no comment is needed.

"In brief, then, the black people of Georgia paid taxes for 1902 on 4,175,291 acres of land, and upon an entire property aggregating $16,188,000 in assessed value. This means, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that the negroes of Georgia, or, broadly speaking, the south, are accumulating property and acquiring homes. And since the negro with a home is almost sure to stand for law, order and civic faithfulness, it means, moreover, a reaching out toward higher standards of living, not material living alone, but social life, mental and moral striving and achievements."

His Ideas Changed.

"Yes," said John's mother, "he used to worry me nearly to death. There was hardly a day the whole summer long that he wouldn't run off and go swimming."

"It's strange how men change," replied John's wife. "I have to become downright cross and scold to get him into water once a week now."—Houston Post.

PITTSBURGHERS IN BIG INDUSTRY

Cuban Sugar Plant Is to Be Extended at a Cost of $15,000,000.

WILL BUY MACHINERY HERE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, May 30.

Fully $15,000,000 are to be expended in the development of new and the extension of already existing sugar plantations in Cuba, in which Pittsburgh capital is interested, and for which large quantities of Pittsburgh structural material and machinery will be required.

One of the largest, if not the very largest, sugar projects in the island, is that of the Colonial Sugar Company, a $6,000,000 concern, of which Adrian H. Larkin of the Pressed Steel Car Company of Pittsburgh, is a director, and in which other Pittsburghers are financially concerned. This company occupies a unique position in the sugar industry, as it raises its own cane on its own lands, crushing the cane in Pittsburgh mills and in its own Pittsburgh-built sugar factory, producing raw sugar, and refining it into standard high-grade sugar at its own refinery.

The property is located on the south side of Cuba, 12 miles from the city of Cienfuegos. The plantation was formerly known as the "Constancia," one of the largest on the Islands, and contiguous to tidewater, which is reached by a navigable river. On this estate upward of $5,000,000 had been expended by former owners. It was wrecked during the Cuban war, but since then the most up-to-date equipment has been put in, capable of taking care of some 1,500 tons of cane daily, and, according to M. R. Spelman, the president of the company, the Pittsburgh-built mill, the first of its type to be manufactured, has brought about such big economies over hitherto existing sugar machinery, that it has been decided to treble the capacity of the plant, which will mean the purchase of two more 1,500 to 1,800-ton outfits, and will bring the capacity of the factory up to some 5,000 tons daily. This will mean the turning out of 400,000 tons of sugar a season and the expenditure of some $5,000,000 on the property.

Referring to the saving effected by the installation of Pittsburgh crushing machinery Mr. Spelman, who has just returned from Cuba, stated that it made a difference of some 40 cents to 60 cents a ton in the grinding operations. The greatest secrecy was pursued in the building of the machinery in the Pittsburgh shops, as it is of an entirely new method of construction and is expected to bring about a complete revolution in the economies of sugar production.

DR. DAWSON, EVANGELIST, BEGINS MEETING HERE

Noted English Preacher Utters Novel Ideas on Evangelizing Methods, Acquired by Long Experience.

The Rev. Dr. William J. Dawson, the famous "normal evangelist" of England, began yesterday his brief series of meetings in the Second Presbyterian church. Dr. Dawson spoke in the afternoon and evening, and will speak today in the same church at 3:30 p. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Dr. Dawson is not of the American kind of evangelist, who, with moving eloquence, stirs his hearers to enthusiasm. His theory is that practically every minister ought to be an evangelist—his church should be an evangelizing center. At yesterday afternoon's meeting, after several hymns had been sung, Dr. Dawson was introduced by the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Edward Young. Dr. Dawson, after a few general remarks, said he could not better illustrate his ideas on evangelization than by telling the story of his own church in London. That church had its church societies, its gymnasium, its social features, and everybody in the congregation was satisfied. But Dr. Dawson attended the great congress of the Free Churches of England and was so greatly impressed by what he saw there that he returned to his congregation and put in force the methods he had learned at the congress. He interested the members of his church, and pastor and congregation devoted their attention to bringing into the church the many thousands of unchurched poor in London.

"This is my principle," said Dr. Dawson, "I hold that every church can and should be made an evangelical center by a normal minister, a normal congregation and normal methods. Every minister should be an evangelist, every church should be an evangelizing center, the hub of the redemptive work of its neighborhood; it should not be only an educational center, but a source of social influence, a club."

Dr. Dawson said the signs of the times pointed to a great religious revival all over the Christian world. He said he should not be surprised if there were not soon a great quickening of religion, a marked expansion of Christian charity.

Socialists Show Their Contempt.

BERLIN, May 30.—Emperor William closed the reichstag today. Vice Chancellor von Posadowsky-Wehner reading the imperial communication to that effect. All the Socialist members left the house as usual, thus showing their disregard for the crown. The house probably will not be called together again until October.

It can be arranged that The Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Pittsburgh shall continue the professional relations of members of the bar to matters which they may be instrumental in placing in its charge. By this means clients may continue to benefit by the oversight of their own counsel, and at the same time secure corporate responsibility.

WEAVER WILL NOT DISCUSS POLITICS

Philadelphia Mayor Evades an Effort to Antagonize Republican Leaders.

ALSO WAR AGAINST DURHAM

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., May 30.

Insurance Commissioner Durham came up from Atlantic City this morning. State Senator George A. Vare came with him. They went at once to the office of Senator Penrose in the Arcade building. There they were joined by Recorder of Deeds W. S. Vare.

None of those present cared to give any explanation regarding their conference. It was rumored that the Vare brothers desired to explain to Durham their reasons for having pledged their support to Mayor Weaver. Possibly this is true, but as the close friends of Mr. Durham assert that the Vares acted upon his suggestion in promising the mayor to support him, the explanation is not generally credited. It was clearly evident that Durham and the Vares were in friendly accord, and it is believed that while they will give Mayor Weaver their support in his administrative policies, they will recognize Mr. Durham as the head of the Republican city organization.

The Wanamaker forces are now directing their fight against Durham exclusively. They tried to induce Mayor Weaver to attempt to assume the leadership of the organization. He refused. The same overtures have been made to the Vare brothers, and it is understood that they announced it to be their intention to assist Mr. Durham in every way possible in controlling the organization of which he has been such a successful leader.

Durham's Resignation Improbable.

Quite a large number of county leaders were in town this afternoon. They informed Senator Penrose and Mr. Durham as to the sentiment in their respective localities. They reported that, while the recent gas flurries had created widespread interest, it was regarded as a matter of purely local importance and one which will have no bearing upon state politics.

None of the Republican state or county leaders takes stock in the story that Gov. Pennypacker will ask for Mr. Durham's resignation as insurance commissioner. Some pressure has been brought to bear upon the governor, by those who are trying to disrupt the party, to have him remove Mr. Durham from office. Gov. Pennypacker is not likely to assist these people in their efforts to satisfy personal grievance. He is not likely to listen to advice having a bearing upon the fitness of the members of his cabinet. He has a habit of doing his own thinking.

Attorneys Francis Shunk Brown and Alexander Simpson, Jr., today notified counsel for Mayor Weaver that the injunction proceedings against Potter and Acker will be discontinued when they are called for argument in Judge Ralston's court tomorrow. This is the last step necessary to emphasize the truth of Mr. Durham's statement that he and his friends would in the future support Mayor Weaver. Judge Ralston will unquestionably permit the quashing of the case.

Mayor Evades Politics.

Mayor Weaver had a very busy day. He gave an audience to various members of the Committee of Seventy and discussed with them the contemplated municipal improvements. The mayor was very optimistic and talked freely on any subject except the suggested participation of himself in active politics. On this subject he was a good listener, but deprecated the thought that it would be proper for himself to neglect his official duties in order to make war upon the men who first elected him prosecuting attorney and afterward mayor of the city.

Neither Col. Potter or Mr. Acker, the new directors, are willing to be quoted as to the political outlook. Their very guarded expressions do not go beyond the statement that they intend to make a good record for their respective departments. The Committee of Nine proposes to continue holding ward meetings in the interest of the mayor. As Mr. Weaver has accomplished all he set out to do, people are at a loss to understand why further demonstrations are necessary. It is suspected that the real purpose is to continue the fight on the Republican organization, utilizing the late gas issue in the interest of a fusion movement.

SCORED CORONER'S JURY.

Representative of Foreign Governments Makes Statement on Leiter Mine Disaster.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Attorney Frank Rockhold, acting for three foreign consuls at Chicago, has completed an investigation of the explosion in Joseph Leiter's mine at Zeigler, Ill., April 3. Rockhold was commissioned by the Austrian, Italian and Russian governments.

Today he made his report public, scoring the coroner's jury which held the inquest on the 53 victims. Rockhold also criticises the Franklin county grand jury for alleged inactivity. The list of men includes 20 Austrians, three Finns and one Italian. The report attributes the disaster to the mine management's alleged neglect of precautions required by law. Mr. Leiter denied that the management was guilty of negligence.

Find No Visitors at House.

Special Officer Peter Angelo last night arrested on view Mrs. Nicolino Lumborti of 806 Webster avenue, and locked her up in Central station on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. TOGO'S VICTORY PLEASES BANKS

Pittsburgh Financial Institutions Are Large Holders of Japanese War Bonds.

SECURITIES WILL ADVANCE

Pittsburgh has been directly interested in the success of Admiral Togo and his fleet to a greater extent than is ordinarily realized. Pittsburgh banks are very large holders of the Japanese war securities, while practically no Russian securities of any kind and none of the Russian war loan has been taken here.

If the fortunes of war had turned the other way, and Togo had been defeated, it is realized that Japan would have been at the mercy of Russia almost inevitably and the Flowery Kingdom, which has had so much moral and financial support from the United States, would have been saddled with a debt to meet the Russian indemnity demand, as well as the cost of its own war.

On the other hand, it is pointed out that the only loss to Japan, since it is generally believed that peace is in sight, will be the loss of her citizen's lives. An indemnity more than equaling the cost of the war is expected to be demanded of Russia as a condition of granting peace.

From the start the United States has been a financial supporter of Japan. There have been three war loans. Large portions of the first and second were underwritten in this country, while half of the last one was taken here.

It was in this last loan that the Pittsburgh bankers became most interested. While involving a war risk, the loan was considered a good one, because of the success of the Japanese in the earlier engagements of the war. The part allotted to the United States was $130,000,000. It was handled by a New York house, and was put out at 97½, the bonds bearing 4½ per cent interest. At this rate the local bankers secured their share, and the majority of the larger financial institutions of the city have some of these securities in their possession.

It is expected that with the outcome of the war in Japan's favor there will be a handsome advance in the market value of the bonds, allowing the bankers to realize well on their investment. Government 4 per cents are considered an excellent investment in time of peace, and better than par is likely to be reached if all goes well.

One of the features of the war loans has been the fact that the Russians have been able to obtain a better rate than the Japanese. This is ascribed to the fact that Russia is considered a country of far greater resources than her smaller opponent, and therefore less liable to be depleted by a war. The Russian 4 per cents have brought as good a price as the Japanese 4½s.

BOY KILLED BY FALLING TOMBSTONE IN CEMETERY

Crushed to Death at His Mother's Side When They Had Gone to Decorate Graves.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FREEPORT, PA., May 30.—While with his mother in the Sarversville cemetery yesterday afternoon, Harry Chapin, eight years of age, was struck by a falling gravestone and instantly killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapin are residents of Ohio, and came here to visit friends and to be present at memorial services. Mr. Chapin went to Wheeling, W. Va., on a business trip yesterday. Mrs. Chapin and her son, Harry, went to the cemetery to place flowers on several graves. They passed a large headstone, which was leaning over so far that Mrs. Chapin remarked that it would soon fall. Harry, following her, touched the stone with his hand. The touch caused the stone to topple over. The boy was caught under it and his skull was crushed.

The mother's screams brought others in the cemetery to her aid, and they lifted the stone from the boy, who was already dead. The mother is now in a serious condition from shock, having been unconscious since last night, and it is feared she will not survive. With the boy dead and the mother unconscious, there is no means of exactly locating Mr. Chapin, who is still ignorant of the calamity that has befallen his home.

FAMILY FEAR A SCANDAL THROUGH STOLEN LETTERS

Their Recovery More Important Than $60,000 in Jewelry and Stock Certificates Also Taken.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—For the return of a packet of letters, the publication of which would disrupt a wealthy and socially prominent New York family, and would involve other families of equal standing in a scandal, a reward of $10,000 is offered in the Herald tomorrow by the Sheldon Detective bureau on behalf of the wife and daughters from whom the letters were stolen.

Incidentally it is hoped to recover $60,000 worth of jewels and many thousands of dollars' worth of stock certificates which were stolen at the same time as the letters; but in comparison with the latter the loss of the jewelry is considered insignificant.

Every effort has been made to keep the theft secret. Not half a dozen persons are aware that an old-fashioned mahogany treasure box was stolen from a safe, where it has for many years held the most valuable of the possessions of the women members of a prominent family. Not even the head of the family knows of its loss. He, in fact, is the last person on earth whom it is desired to take into the secret, and the necessity of keeping him in ignorance of the facts has been the greatest handicap to the detectives.

The detectives believe the son of the household is the thief. He is a well-known figure at the social functions of the younger set. His motive for the theft is believed to be the necessity of maintaining the appearance of having a large income during his engagement to a wealthy young woman in society. His own family are opposed to the match and have limited his allowance. This young man is being kept under close surveillance.

PITTSBURGH MACHINERY WANTED IN FAR EAST

Americans from the Orient en Route Here to Buy Electrical Equipment.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Two Americans—F. W. Horne, the pioneer and largest handler of Yankee labor-saving devices in the far east, and A. L. Bagnall of Bagnall & Hilles, one of the biggest contractors for electrical equipment supplies in the orient—are now here en route to Pittsburgh for the purpose of placing some heavy orders for various machinery for export to Japan.

Mr. Horne, whose headquarters are in Yokohama, has already placed one contract for 500 engine lathes, several boilers and engines. He represents the Japanese interests of some 30 big American machinery builders, including a number in the Pittsburgh district, and will rush the orders through overland so that as much as possible of the equipment will reach Japan before July 1, as after that date an extra duty ranging from 5 to 10 per cent is to be inflicted as war tax on various imports into the mikado's empire.

Mr. Horne states that business is being carried on in Japan just as if there was no war. The Japanese take their victories very soberly. He looks for an enormous demand for American structural material and various labor-saving devices after peace is restored, which will mean big shipments from the Pittsburgh district.

Mr. Bagnall's firm is one of the representatives of the General Electric Company in Japan. He says the call for electrical equipment is even at this moment very large and that after hostilities cease it will be but a short time before the Flowery Kingdom ranks among the most extensive users of electricity in the world. Even at present all the important cities in Japan have trolley roads and in Tokyo both high-speed elevated and a network of surface lines are under construction. There will also be a big market for turbines of large capacity for installation in lighting plants and in the extensive coal and copper mining properties about to be opened.

The manufacture of arc and incandescent lamps of American type is to be carried on in an important scale in Tokyo. American capital will be in control of the plant, which will be the first of its description in the far east.

DRUG CLERK IS FOOLED BY AN ANCIENT TRICK

Thief Sends Him to Cellar for Oil and Robs Cash Register.

During the absence of John Lieberwick, day clerk at the store of the Walther Pharmacy Company, at Anderson and East Lacock streets, Allegheny, yesterday, an unknown thief opened the cash register, took $20 and escaped. People sitting on their front doorsteps in the neighborhood were alarmed by the clerk and gave chase, but the thief escaped into an alley between two houses.

The man entered the store about 2 p. m. and asked the clerk for a quart of gasoline. The clerk went to the cellar to secure the oil and while filling the bottle he heard the bell of the cash register ring. He rushed upstairs, but the thief was at the head of the stairway waiting for Lieberwick, and when he appeared at the top the thief kicked him in the legs above the knees and the clerk was knocked backward down the steps.

By the time Lieberwick recovered himself and reached the street to give the alarm, the man had gained a good start and was running down Lacock street. He was chased by a large crowd up Lacock street to Arbuckle alley and through Stoddard alley, and was being hard pressed, when he ran into an alley and disappeared in a court. Two men who were leading the pursuers live in the neighborhood and because of their knowledge of the place into which the thief ran, did not attempt to follow him. A number of men appeared in the courtyard, which is said to be a resort for thieves.

RIOTING STRIKERS HAVE NO FRIEND IN CUSHMAN

Congressman Denounces Action of Unionists Who Drove Non-Unionists Into the Sea.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MOUNT VERNON, WASH., May 30.—Congressman F. W. Cushman of Tacoma, in a Memorial day address delivered here today, launched into a discussion of the present labor troubles. After commenting on the driving of non-union men into the sea at Tacoma and Bellingham, he said:

"No man can say that I have been unfaithful to the cause of those who labor. But when they resort to violence and bloodshed, right there I quit. I will not march under a flag that is drenched with the blood of assassinated victims. I do not care who is carrying it, or what emblem is painted on it. Now is the time for men to declare themselves.

"I believe in legal restraint and lawful liberty. There is no middle ground. Let us then, on this solemn day, conceive that the unsullied banner of the United States shall never have its star stamped out by the heels of a mob as long as there is a single red corpuscle left in the veins of the last American patriot."

OFFICIALS FAIL TO GIVE RELIEF

CITIZENS MAKE VAIN APPEAL

Petitions are being circulated in the Twentieth and Fourteenth wards against the smoke nuisance on the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh Junction railroads. These petitions are to be presented to city officials with a demand that measures be taken to abate the nuisance. The complaints from the Twentieth yard come principally from the residents of the district adjacent to the Ben Venue station on the Pennsylvania railroad, and also from the residents of the Sixteenth ward, who are near the same station.

Delegations from the Twentieth and Sixteenth wards have called upon the councilmen of these wards seeking relief, but the councilmen claim to be unable to do anything. A few days ago a delegation called upon Councilman C. W. Helmold, after several trips previously. Mr. Helmold told the delegation he had put the matter in the hands of City Ordinance Officer M. G. Livingston. Mr. Helmold said yesterday that Mr. Livingston had done nothing yet to satisfy the complaints.

"I have been waiting for a petition from the residents of the Twentieth ward," said Mr. Livingston yesterday. "Mr. Helmold said a petition would be brought to me, signed by the residents in the vicinity of Ben Venue station, and I have been waiting for it before taking any steps.

"I do not see what I can do, anyway, to stop the smoke on the Pennsylvania railroad. There is no ordinance covering the case of the Pennsylvania railroad, and I don't see how anything can be done until councils have passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of soft coal on all railroads within the city limits.

"In the case of the Pittsburgh Junction railroad the situation is different. When this road received its grant from the city it obligated itself to burn only coke or wood for fuel, and is prohibited from using soft coal. The Pittsburgh Junction railroad can be compelled to obey this ordinance, and I have had a talk about the matter with Robert Finney, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio, to which the Pittsburgh Junction belongs. The residents of the Fourteenth ward are complaining about the smoke from this road, and they are signing a petition which is to be presented to the city officials."

SUICIDE IS BELIEVED TO BE A PITTSBURGHER

Man Who Shot Himself in Lynchburg, Va., Thought to Be Local Street Car Conductor.

A man who committed suicide by shooting himself at Lynchburg, Va., on Saturday is believed to be Jack T. Davies a former street car conductor, who left Pittsburgh two months ago. A telegram sent to Lynchburg last night by Mrs. Nellie Davies of No. 930 Homewood avenue may lead to the identification of the suicide. In her telegram Mrs. Davies asked if the dead man had a scar on his right hip, but to the dismay of the authorities who prepared the body for burial, they did not notice whether the body bore such a scar or not. Mrs. Davies stated that the scar was caused by the breaking of a bottle of acid which Davies was carrying in his hip pocket.

A young man in Lynchburg who worked for several years in the trunk factory of Boyd, Boyd & Boyd in Allegheny, viewed the remains and declared he had frequently seen the man in Allegheny, but did not know his name. The remains were interred yesterday by the Lynchburg aerie of Eagles, and they are making every possible effort to identify the body.

IN MIDST OF THE DANCE FAIR PRISONER IS TAKEN

Annie Carroll, Suspected of Taking Diamond Ring, Is Quietly Separated from Her Partner.

While dancing a two-step with her sweetheart at Calhoun park yesterday afternoon Anna Carroll was placed under arrest by Detectives Eagan and Cole and brought to this city. The girl was suspected of having stolen a $600 diamond ring from her mistress, Mrs. H. L. Sloan of Belmar place. When confronted by her employer she confessed to taking the jewel, which she hid in the bath room.

The arrest was made so quietly that the girl's partner did not know what her difficulty was until she reached the city. Mrs. Sloan missed her ring on Monday. When she retired she placed it under the pillow in her room. She forgot the jewel when she got up and later it was missing. She suspected her maid.

The girl said she found it on the floor while at work and placed it under the tub in the bath room. Her employer was satisfied to recover the jewel and refused to prosecute the girl. The domestic was discharged and left the house with the officers.

POLICEMAN BREAKS FINGER IN ARRESTING FIGHTERS

Policeman Charles Webb had the index finger of his right hand broken while trying to arrest three men who were fighting in Hanover street, Allegheny, at 4 p. m. yesterday. The officer, with the assistance of citizens, arrested two of the men, Charles Wiggins and Bartley Langfitt of Woods Run avenue and locked them up after a hard fight. The third man escaped.

BOY FALLS FROM ROOF WHILE WATCHING BALL GAME

While watching a baseball game from the roof of a new two-story house in East Wabash avenue, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, George Boehmer, aged 19, of 1 Meyran avenue, Allegheny, fell from the roof and broke both arms and fractured his skull. The boy's companions mistook his shouts to cheer and slipped from the roof, falling to the ground. He was taken to his home on a stretcher by members of Engine company No. 4. His condition last night was serious.

Pitches a Wide Ball.

While Henry Pindexter was watching a ball game near the Larimer avenue bridge yesterday, he saw a lot of boys beating another boy, whom they had accused with informing the police that they had stolen a quantity of lead pipe. Poindexter went to save the boy from the mob, when they turned on him and started to chase him over the bridge. Near the center of the bridge, Poindexter threw a brick at his pursuers. The brick struck Margaret Wallis of 1117 Larimer avenue on the head, cutting her scalp. Poindexter made his escape.

Will Try to Oust Johnston.

A meeting of the Seventh ward school board of Allegheny will be held at the school house this evening, when the principal and staff of teachers will be voted for. A fight is being made against the re-election of E. P. Johnston, who has been principal of the ward school for years. The directors who are against Johnston say he promised to resign at the end of his term. About a dozen candidates are out for the position.

Horse Is Shot; Driver Hurt.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 30.—There was nothing done on either side of the teamsters' strike today, but active hostilities are promised for tomorrow, and the chief trouble is expected to come in the lumber district.

In addition to the lumber teamsters, who are now out, there will in all probability be a strike of all the men employed by 35 sash and door factories, as those concerns have announced that tomorrow they will commence making deliveries to boycotted houses. Application has been made by them to the officers of the Employers Teaming company for 225 drivers, and they will be sent into the lumber district tomorrow. The number of union men who are expected to strike by noon tomorrow is about 200, and it is expected that the extension of the strike will cause more rioting in that part of the city. The police declare, however, that they are abundantly able to handle the situation.

A break in the ranks of the Team Owners' association occurred today. The members of this organization have throughout the strike acted more in favor of the teamsters than they have as allies of the Employers' association, and have for the greater part refused to make deliveries to boycotted houses. The Weaver Coal Company, one of the largest concerns in the city, announced this afternoon that commencing tomorrow it would make deliveries of coal to all boycotted houses. The firm employs 50 drivers, and it is expected that they will all walk out in the morning.

There were several rumors of peace negotiations today, but none of them amounted to anything. The executive council of the teamsters is reported to be divided on the question of submitting the question of calling off the strike to a referendum vote of all the members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters throughout the country. President Shea and two members of the council are opposed to the plan. Five members of the council are said to be in favor of the referendum vote.

WOULD NOT REHEARSE MARRIAGE CEREMONIES

Baltimore Minister Makes Rule to Discourage Fashionable Church Weddings.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, May 30.—The Rev. Charles E. Guthrie, pastor of Park Place Strawbridge Methodist Episcopal church, will not read the marriage ceremony for rehearsing parties. Moreover, he discourages the idea of fashionable church weddings which make rehearsals necessary on the ground that such affairs look rather too much for dramatic effect and dress display than to the solemnity of the obligation being assumed.

"I will not rehearse weddings with the parties in any case," he said, "because I am convinced that weddings with great display and elaborate preparations work more harm than good and are in part at the base of a very serious social evil.

"I believe that when any clergyman takes part in a rehearsal to the extent of reading the service the man and woman are at the end of it just as much married as though the license had been issued and the contract solemnized in the regular form. The matter of license is merely a civil check placed on the ceremony by the state for its benefit and protection."

PREMATURE EXPLOSION MARS DAY AT MORGANTOWN

Celebrant Loses Three Fingers and an Eye While Firing a Salute to West Virginia's Governor.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., May 30.—By the premature discharge of a cannon here today, during the firing of the governor's salute at the Memorial day exercises, John C. Kesiter, a cadet from Upper Tract, W. Va., lost three fingers and the sight of an eye. He is in a critical condition.

The day was observed here by the unveiling of a beautiful monument, the gift of the county, and dedicated to the memory of the men from this county who fought in the Mexican, civil and Spanish-American wars. Gov. Dawson and his staff were present, along with many state officials and thousands of visitors. Judge John W. Mason delivered the principal address and other addresses were made by L. V. Keck, Maj. J. M. Burns and Both Jannewine. Later in the day Gov. Dawson and George C. Sturgiss delivered patriotic addresses.

A piece of artillery, in charge of state cadets, had been secured for firing the governor's salute, which was given immediately after the close of the dedicatory addresses. Sixteen guns of the salute had been fired and a charge was just being rammed home, when there was a premature explosion. Kesiter was ramming the charge. He was terribly burned by the explosion and his condition is such that he may lose his life. The accident seriously marred the further exercises of the day.

SOCIALISTS NAME TICKET.

Condemn Anti-Saloon League and Favor Less Work and More Pay.

COLUMBUS, O., May 30.—The Socialists of Ohio met here today and named a complete state ticket, headed by Isaac C. Owen of Cleveland for governor; lieutenant governor, W. C. Sundrup, Toledo; attorney general, J. C. Madden, Continenta; treasurer, J. N. Sims, Bethel; judge of supreme court, H. J. Zeigler, Portsmouth; board of public works, George Stack, Lorain.

The resolutions adopted state that the anti-saloon league is a failure, that more rigid laws should control work in factories and that workmen should have better hours and better pay.

Unloaded Revolver Again.

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 30.—(Special.)—Sherman Hardsock, a hired man on the farm of Allison Hart, accidentally shot and killed Alonzo Hart, aged 14. BOLYER SHOOTS WIFE TO GET HIS DOG BACK

Negro at Monongahela City Tries to Wound His Sister-in-Law Also.

"Let my dog come back home. I don't want him to get into bad company," said Joseph Bolyer, negro, to his common law wife, Mattie Coleman, and her sister Sadie, to whom he met on the railroad tracks at Monongahela City at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The spirited reply he received from Mattie was answered by his drawing a 38-calibre revolver and starting to shoot. He shot his former wife through the face, the bullet entering one cheek and coming out on the other side. He also shot at the sister, and both dropped, although the sister had not been hit.

Later in the day he surrendered himself to County Detectives Jerry Lutz and John Englert, and was taken to the Braddock lockup. He is held on a charge of felonious shooting.

Bolyer said he and Mattie Coleman had lived together as man as wife for several years, but that he had become jealous of her attentions to other negroes recently, and a few days ago ordered her to leave his place. She went to live with her sister. Bolyer is about 30 years old. Mattie Coleman is 10 years younger. Her condition is dangerous.

MONUMENT FOR VICTIMS OF HARWICK UNVEILED

Two thousand persons yesterday witnessed the dedication and unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of the 180 miners killed in the explosion of the Harwick mine on January 25, 1904. Uriah Bellingham and William Dodds, vice presidents of district No. 5, United Mine Workers, had charge of the services and delivered addresses.

The Rev. O. B. Graham of the Cheswick Lutheran church spoke and the Rev. Father Alexandros addressed the foreign miners in their own language. The audience filled the little cemetery. The 137 graves of the miners were decorated with flags and flowers. The eight-foot granite monument is near the miners' graves. On the face is inscribed, "Erected May 30, 1904. Subscribed by men of district No. 5, United Mine Workers, in memory of 180 miners killed in the Harwick mine explosion January 25, 1904."

On the sides of the column are engraved the names of the officers of the United Mine Workers of the district and the names of the committee in charge of the erection of the monument. On the rear is carved a scene of a passage in the interior of the Harwick mine after the terrific explosion, showing the discovery of the dead bodies of men and mules by a rescue party.

YOUNG MAN BLOWS HEAD OFF WITH A SHOTGUN

Leaving the dancing pavilion at Olympia park, near McKeesport, Robert Nickelson, aged 21, went to his home at Boston, Pa., yesterday afternoon and blew his head off with a shot gun. The cause of the suicide is not known. The coroner was notified of the tragedy by Justice of the Peace W. L. Douglass, of Douglass station. The boy left the park early in the afternoon, and was in good spirits.

He returned home and, without saying anything to his folks, went to his room. His relatives heard the report of the gun and found him lying on the floor. They are unable to explain his act.

James Brady, aged 70, employed in the Duquesne water department, dropped dead while at work yesterday from heart disease. He was a widower and lived at Duquesne.

William Jones, aged 38, of the rear of 3129 Brighton road, Allegheny, was found dead in his room yesterday. He was employed as a heater at the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron plant and it is supposed heart disease caused his death.

Edward Greandzietewski, aged 9, of 2717 Quinsey street, Twenty-seventh ward, was killed yesterday by a freight train on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad at South Twenty-seventh street. The boy was playing on the tracks when run down.

YACHT HAMBURG ARRIVES.

German Schooner Crosses the Winning Line Second in the Race—Endymion Sighted at Sea.

LONDON, May 30.—The German yacht Hamburg finished at 7:21 p. m. today. Capt. C. Peters of the Hamburg, replying to a megaphoned message, said he had a splendid voyage and had not met with any mishaps. When informed of the record made by the American yacht Atlantic, Capt. Peters said he was astonished at such an achievement.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which arrived off Nantucket today, sighted the yacht Endymion at 10 p. m. on May 26 in latitude 47 north, longitude 50.22 west. She had a strong westerly wind. The Atlantic, which won the Emperor William cup and established a new transatlantic record for sailing yachts, on the 26th was about 35 miles to the eastward of the point where the Endymion was sighted by the Kaiser Wilhelm. The Endymion has not yet been sighted from the Lizard.

"Blue Bells" Cause Murder.

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 30.—(Special.)—Because William Ayres started up the tune "Blue Bells" for a crowd of young folks en route home from a dance early this afternoon, he was fatally stabbed by William Owens, who walked up to him and plunged the knife in his abdomen. The boys had been lifelong friends. Owens had been drinking, and he had an antipathy to the song. He was arrested.

THE PIRATES TOOK BOTH GAMES FROM THE CARDINALS

PIRATES BEAT CARDINALS TWICE

Over 17,000 People Watch Clarke's Crew Take Two Games from St. Louis.

FIELDING IS SENSATIONAL

The Pirates contributed their fair share toward the celebration of Decoration day by taking two games from the St. Louis team, the morning game, 6 to 0, and the afternoon contest, 9 to 5. Both games were practically walkovers for the home team and were witnessed by a regular holiday turnout, 6,500 in the morning and 11,000 in the afternoon.

It was but right and proper that Clarke's crew should be on its best behavior before such a crowd of home rooters. The morning crowd was not large enough to overtax the seating in the stands, but the afternoon turnout was, and a ground rule was necessary, making a hit into the crowd good for only two bases. The crowds at both games were perfectly fair and were just as liberal in their applause for a good play by a visitor as they were for a home player.

In the morning there was threatening weather just before game time, and there was rain during the first innings. The same conditions prevailed in the afternoon, only the rain held off until the fifth inning and the downfall was heavy enough to drive a number of spectators from the open seats, which were occupied by a number of women owing to the overcrowded grandstand.

The morning game was really a contest between Pitchers Case and Nichols. The Pirate hurler had the best of it as he pitched his best game of the season. He was backed with faultless support. Nichols also pitched fine ball, but the locals managed to bunch hits on him at proper moments and they produced the runs necessary for victory. In the seventh inning a three-bagger drive from Clarke fell caught Nichols on the right thumb and dislocated it, forcing him to retire. Pitcher Egan finished the game.

The star of the morning contest was Hans Wagner, who wielded his bat with great effect, securing four hits, three singles and a three-bagger. Pitcher Case also helped out in the batting line, making two nice hits, a single and a two-bagger. The clever fielding of the Pirates was a treat for the spectators. The plays were all fast and perfect. The fielders had plenty to do as the ball was hit hard if not safe.

The afternoon game was the one for the crowd as there was plenty of hitting as well as clever fielding. In the latter Dunleavy, who covered right for the Cardinals, was easily the star, making at least four of the most sensational catches of the season. Each one of these hits looked good for at least two or three bases, but the fleet-footed Dunleavy managed to get under them and his clever work was loudly cheered by the crowd.

The star performer for the Pirates was Clymer, whose batting and base running was the feature of the afternoon. Out of five times at bat Clymer made four hits, all of them singles. He also had a sacrifice hit so his batting record for the afternoon was perfect. The pitchers in this game were Leever and Taylor, and the schoolmaster had easily the best of the pitching argument, while the Cardinals safe in all but the fourth and ninth innings, when they scored their runs. Leever let up a little in the ninth as his team had the game well in hand.

Taylor was more than anxious to pitch a winning game as he has a spite against the Pirates because of the charges preferred against him last winter. He used the spit ball almost exclusively. To this peculiar pitch the locals took kindly. Three wild pitches were chalked up against him. The Pirates started right after him from the jump and gave him no rest until nine runs were scored.

These runs were the result of clean hitting and few base running, the men on the bases taking all kinds of chances. Clymer scored the first run in the opening inning as a result of a single by himself, a stolen base, a wild throw and a single by Beaumont. Clymer also scored in the third when he singled and got around on a sacrifice by Clarke and two wild pitches. In the fourth three runs were scored on four hits and two bases on balls.

In the fifth with a change in Clymer's hit and brought home a run on a sacrifice by Clymer and a single by Beaumont. Three more runs were scored in the seventh on three hits and a base on balls. The Cardinals did not score until the sixth inning, when an error by Leach, a single by Smoot, and a three-bagger by Burke produced two runs. In the ninth Leever took things easy and three runs were scored on a base on balls and four hits, one of which was for two bases and two others for three bases. The scores:

OFFICIALS FAIL TO GIVE RELIEF

CITIZENS MAKE VAIN APPEAL

Petitions are being circulated in the Twentieth and Fourteenth wards against the smoke nuisance on the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh Junction railroads. These petitions are to be presented to city officials with a demand that measures be taken to abate the nuisance. The complaints from the Twentieth yard come principally from the residents of the district adjacent to the Ben Venue station on the Pennsylvania railroad, and also from the residents of the Sixteenth ward, who are near the same station.

Delegations from the Twentieth and Sixteenth wards have called upon the councilmen of these wards seeking relief, but the councilmen claim to be unable to do anything. A few days ago a delegation called upon Councilman C. W. Helmold, after several trips previously. Mr. Helmold told the delegation he had put the matter in the hands of City Ordinance Officer M. G. Livingston. Mr. Helmold said yesterday that Mr. Livingston had done nothing yet to satisfy the complaints.

"I have been waiting for a petition from the residents of the Twentieth ward," said Mr. Livingston yesterday. "Mr. Helmold said a petition would be brought to me, signed by the residents in the vicinity of Ben Venue station, and I have been waiting for it before taking any steps.

"I do not see what I can do, anyway, to stop the smoke on the Pennsylvania railroad. There is no ordinance covering the case of the Pennsylvania railroad, and I don't see how anything can be done until councils have passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of soft coal on all railroads within the city limits.

"In the case of the Pittsburgh Junction railroad the situation is different. When this road received its grant from the city it obligated itself to burn only coke or wood for fuel, and is prohibited from using soft coal. The Pittsburgh Junction railroad can be compelled to obey this ordinance, and I have had a talk about the matter with Robert Finney, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio, to which the Pittsburgh Junction belongs. The residents of the Fourteenth ward are complaining about the smoke from this road, and they are signing a petition which is to be presented to the city officials."

SUICIDE IS BELIEVED TO BE A PITTSBURGHER

Man Who Shot Himself in Lynchburg, Va., Thought to Be Local Street Car Conductor.

A man who committed suicide by shooting himself at Lynchburg, Va., on Saturday is believed to be Jack T. Davies a former street car conductor, who left Pittsburgh two months ago. A telegram sent to Lynchburg last night by Mrs. Nellie Davies of No. 80 Homewood avenue may lead to the identification of the suicide. In her telegram Mrs. Davies asked if the dead man had a scar on his right hip, but to the dismay of the authorities who prepared the body for burial, they did not notice whether the body bore such a scar or not. Mrs. Davies stated that the scar was caused by the breaking of a bottle of acid which Davies was carrying in his hip pocket.

A young man in Lynchburg who worked for several years in the trunk factory of Boyd, Boyd & Boyd in Allegheny, viewed the remains and declared he had frequently seen the man in Allegheny, but did not know his name. The remains were interred yesterday by the Lynchburg aerie of Eagles, and they are making every possible effort to identify the body.

IN MIDST OF THE DANCE FAIR PRISONER IS TAKEN

Annie Carroll, Suspected of Taking Diamond Ring, Is Quietly Separated from Her Partner.

While dancing a two-step with her sweetheart at Calhoun park yesterday afternoon Anna Carroll was placed under arrest by Detectives Eagan and Cole and brought to this city. The girl was suspected of having stolen a $600 diamond ring from her mistress, Mrs. H. L. Sloan of Belmar place. When confronted by her employer she confessed to taking the jewel, which she hid in the bath room.

The arrest was made so quietly that the girl's partner did not know what her difficulty was until she reached the city. Mrs. Sloan missed her ring on Monday. When she retired she placed it under the pillow in her room. She forgot the jewel when she got up and later it was missing. She suspected her maid. The girl said she found it on the floor while at work and placed it under the tub in the bath room. Her employer was satisfied to recover the jewel and refused to prosecute the girl. The domestic was discharged and left the house with the officers.

POLICEMAN BREAKS FINGER IN ARRESTING FIGHTERS

Policeman Charles Webb had the index finger of his right hand broken while trying to arrest three men who were fighting in Hanover street, Allegheny, at 4 p. m. yesterday. The officer, with the assistance of citizens, arrested two of the men, Charles Wiggins and Bartley Langfit of Woods Run avenue and locked them up after a hard fight. The third man escaped.

BOY FALLS FROM ROOF WHILE WATCHING BALL GAME

While watching a baseball game from the roof of a new two-story house in East Wabash avenue, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, George Boehmer, aged 16, of 1 Meyran avenue, Allegheny, fell from the roof and broke both arms and fractured his skull. The boy's companions said he stood up to cheer and slipped from the roof, falling to the ground. He was taken to his home on a stretcher by members of Engine company No. 4. His condition last night was serious.

Pitches a Wide Bail.

While Henry Pindexter was watching a ball game near the Larimer avenue bridge yesterday, he saw a lot of boys beating another boy, whom they had accused with informing the police that they had stolen a quantity of lead pipe. Poindexter went to save the boy from the gang, when they turned on him and started to chase him over the bridge. Near the center of the bridge, Poindexter threw a brick at his pursuers. The brick struck Margaret Walls of 1117 Larimer avenue on the head, cutting her scalp. Poindexter made his escape.

Will Try to Oust Johnston.

A meeting of the Seventh ward school board of Allegheny will be held at the school house this evening, when the principal and staff of teachers will be voted for. A fight is being made against the re-election of E. P. Johnston, who has been principal of the ward school for years. The directors who are against Johnston say he promised to resign at the end of his term. About a dozen candidates are out for the position.

Horse Is Shot; Driver Hurt.

Jim Cyphers of 6606 Penn avenue, a driver for the Consolidated Ice Company, got about the head by being knocked from his wagon at Berlin street by a Frankstown avenue car yesterday afternoon. He had not observed the rapidly approaching car and drove directly in front of it. The horse was so badly injured that it had to be shot.

TEAMSTERS WILL SPREAD STRIKE

Chicago Labor Trouble Threatens to Reach a Serious Crisis by Noon Today.

OPPOSES REFERENDUM VOTE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 30.—There was nothing done on either side of the teamsters' strike today, but active hostilities are promised for tomorrow, and the chief trouble is expected to come in the lumber district.

In addition to the lumber teamsters, who are now out, there will in all probability be a strike of all the men employed by 25 sash and door factories, as those concerns have announced that tomorrow they will commence making deliveries to boycotted houses. Application has been made by them to the officers of the Employers Teaming company for 225 drivers, and they will be sent into the lumber district tomorrow. The number of union men who are expected to strike by noon tomorrow is about 200, and it is expected that the extension of the strike will cause more rioting in that part of the city. The police declare, however, that they are abundantly able to handle the situation.

A break in the ranks of the Team Owners' association occurred today. The members of this organization have throughout the strike acted more in favor of the teamsters than they have as allies of the Employers' association, and have for the greater part, refused to make deliveries to boycotted houses. The Weaver Coal Company, one of the largest concerns in the city, announced this afternoon that commencing tomorrow it would make deliveries of coal to all boycotted houses. The firm employs 50 drivers, and it is expected that they will all walk out in the morning.

There were several rumors of peace negotiations today, but none of them amounted to anything. The executive council of the teamsters is reported to be divided on the question of submitting the question of calling off the strike to a referendum vote of all the members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters throughout the country. President Shea and two members of the council are opposed to the plan. Five members of the council are said to be in favor of the referendum vote.

WOULD NOT REHEARSE MARRIAGE CEREMONIES

Baltimore Minister Makes Rule to Discourage Fashionable Church Weddings.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, May 30.—The Rev. Charles S. Guthrie, pastor of Park Place Strawbridge Methodist Episcopal church, will not read the marriage ceremony for rehearsing parties. Moreover, he discourages the idea of fashionable church weddings which make rehearsals necessary on the ground that such affairs look rather too much for dramatic effect and dress display than to the solemnity of the obligation being assumed.

"I will not rehearse weddings with the parties in any case," he said, "because I am convinced that weddings with great display and elaborate preparations work more harm than good and are in part at the base of a very serious social evil.

"I believe that when any clergyman takes part in a rehearsal to the extent of reading the service the man and woman are at the end of it just as much married as though the license had been issued and the contract solemnized in the regular form. The matter of license is merely a civil check placed on the ceremony by the state for its benefit and protection."

PREMATURE EXPLOSION MARS DAY AT MORGANTOWN

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., May 30.—By the premature discharge of a cannon here today, during the firing of the governor's salute at the Memorial day exercises, John C. Kesiter, a cadet from Upper Tract, W. Va., lost three fingers and the sight of an eye. He is in a critical condition.

The day was observed here by the unveiling of a beautiful monument, the gift of the county, and dedicated to the memory of the men from this county who fought in the Mexican, civil and Spanish-American wars. Gov. Dawson and his staff were present, along with many state officials and thousands of visitors. Judge John W. Mason delivered the principal address and other addresses were made by L. V. Keck, Maj. J. M. Burns and Both Jannewine. Later in the day Gov. Dawson and George C. Sturgiss delivered patriotic addresses.

A piece of artillery, in charge of state cadets, had been secured for firing the governor's salute, which was given immediately after the close of the dedicatory addresses. Sixteen guns of the salute had been fired and a charge was just being rammed home, when there was a premature explosion. Kesiter was ramming the charge. He was terribly burned by the explosion and his condition is such that he may lose his life. The accident seriously marred the further exercises of the day.

FINLEYVILLE, PA., May 30.—(Special.)—The annual reunion of the Phillips family was held here today in the Peters Creek Baptist church, near Library, and was attended by scores of the family who live at Library and surrounding towns.

The founder of the family was the Rev. David Phillips, who came to America from Wales in the 18th century and served as a captain in the revolutionary war under Gen. George Washington. For 40 year she was pastor of Peters Creek Baptist church and he was buried in the old churchyard at Library.

Everhart, Pittsburgh; executive committee, Dr. W. T. Phillips, Library; Dr. I. W. Riggs, Pittsburgh; Joseph R. Phillips, Library.

COLUMBUS, O., May 30.—The Socialists of Ohio met here today and named a complete state ticket, headed by Isaac C. Owen of Cleveland for governor; lieutenant governor, W. C. Sundrup, Toledo; attorney general, J. C. Madden, Continenta; treasurer, J. N. Sims, Bethel; judge of supreme court, H. J. Zeigler, Portsmouth; board of public works, George Stack, Lorain.

The resolutions adopted state that the anti-saloon league is a failure, that more rigid laws should control work in factories and that workmen should have better hours and better pay.

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 30.—(Special.)—Sherman Hardsock, a hired man on the farm of Allison Hart, accidentally shot and killed Alonzo Hart, aged 13. BOLYER SHOOTS WIFE TO GET HIS DOG BACK

Negro at Monongahela City Tries to Wound His Sister-in-Law Also.

"Let my dog come back home. I don't want him to get into bad company," said Joseph Bolyer, negro, to his common law wife, Mattie Coleman, and her sister Sadie, to whom he met on the railroad tracks at Monongahela City at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The spirited reply he received from Mattie was answered by his drawing a 38-calibre revolver and starting to shoot. He shot his former wife through the face, the bullet entering one cheek and coming out on the other side. He also shot at the sister, and both dropped, although the sister had not been hit.

Later in the day he surrendered himself to County Detectives Jerry Lutz and John Englert, and was taken to the Braddock lockup. He is held on a charge of felonious shooting.

Bolyer said he and Mattie Coleman had lived together as man as wife for several years, but that he had become jealous of her attentions to other negroes recently, and a few days ago ordered her to leave his place. She went to live with her sister. Bolyer is about 30 years old. Mattie Coleman is 10 years younger. Her condition is dangerous.

MONUMENT FOR VICTIMS OF HARWICK UNVEILED

Two thousand persons yesterday witnessed the dedication and unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of the 180 miners killed in the explosion of the Harwick mine on January 25, 1904. Uriah Bellingham and William Dodds, vice presidents of district No. 5, United Mine Workers, had charge of the services and delivered addresses.

The Rev. O. B. Graham of the Cheswick Lutheran church spoke and the Rev. Father Alexandros addressed the foreign miners in their own language. The audience filled the little cemetery. The 137 graves of the miners were decorated with flags and flowers. The eight-foot granite monument is near the miners' graves. On the face is inscribed, "Erected May 30, 1904. Subscribed by men of district No. 5, United Mine Workers, in memory of 180 miners killed in the Harwick mine explosion January 25, 1904."

On the sides of the column are engraved the names of the officers of the United Mine Workers of the district and the names of the committee in charge of the erection of the monument. On the rear is carved a scene of a passage in the interior of the Harwick mine after the terrific explosion, showing the discovery of the dead bodies of men and mules by a rescue party.

YOUNG MAN BLOWS HEAD OFF WITH A SHOTGUN

Leaving the dancing pavilion at Olympia park, near McKeesport, Robert Nickelson, aged 21, went to his home at Boston, Pa., yesterday afternoon and blew his head off with a shot gun. The cause of the suicide is not known. The coroner was notified of the tragedy by Justice of the Peace W. L. Douglass, of Douglass station. The boy left the park early in the afternoon, and was in good spirits.

He returned home and, without saying anything to his folks, went to his room. His relatives heard the report of the gun and found him lying on the floor. They are unable to explain his act.

James Brady, aged 70, employed in the Duquesne water department, dropped dead while at work yesterday from heart disease. He was a widower and lived at Duquesne.

William Jones, aged 38, of the rear of 3128 Brighton road, Allegheny, was found dead in his room yesterday. He was employed as a heater at the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron plant and it is supposed heart disease caused his death.

Edward Greandzietewski, aged 9, of 2717 Quinsey street, Twenty-seventh ward, was killed yesterday by a freight train on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad at South Twenty-seventh street. The boy was playing on the tracks when run down.

The Endymion has not yet been sighted from the Lizard.

THE PIRATES TOOK BOTH GAMES FROM THE CARDINALS

PIRATES BEAT CARDINALS TWICE

Over 17,000 People Watch Clarke's Crew Take Two Games from St. Louis.

FIELDING IS SENSATIONAL

The Pirates contributed their fair share toward the celebration of Decoration day by taking two games from the St. Louis team, the morning game, 6 to 0, and the afternoon contest, 9 to 5. Both games were practically walkovers for the home team and were witnessed by a regular holiday turnout, 6,000 in the morning and 11,000 in the afternoon.

It was but right and proper that Clarke's crew should be on its best behavior before such a crowd of home rooters. The morning crowd was not large enough to overtax the seats in the stands, but the afternoon turnout was, and a ground rule was necessary, making a hit into the crowd good for only two bases. The crowds at both games were perfectly fair and were just as liberal in their applause for a good play by a visitor as they were for a home player.

In the morning there were threatening clouds just before game time, and there was rain during the first innings. The same conditions prevailed in the afternoon, only the rain held off until the fifth inning and the downfall was heavy enough to drive a number of spectators from the open seats, which were occupied by a number of women owing to the overcrowded grandstand.

The morning game was really a contest between Pitchers Case and Nichols. The Pirate pitcher had the best of it as he pitched his best game of the season. He was backed with faultless support. Nichols also pitched fine ball, but the locals managed to bunch hits on him at proper moments and they produced the runs necessary for victory. In the seventh inning a fine drive from Clarke's bat caught Nichols on the right thumb and dislocated it, forcing him to retire. Pitcher Egan finished the game.

The star of the morning contest was Hans Wagner, who wielded his bat with great effect, securing four hits, three singles and a three-bagger. Pitcher Case also helped out in the batting line, making a single, a double and a two-bagger. The clever fielding of the Pirates was a treat for the spectators. The plays were all fast and perfect. The fielders had plenty to do as the ball was hit hard it was not safe.

The afternoon game was the one for the crowd as there was plenty of hitting as well as clever fielding. Leever, Deifelin and Taylor, who covered right for the Cardinals, was easily the star, making at least four of the most sensational catches of the season. Each one of these hits looked good for at least two or three bases, but the fleet-footed Dunleavy managed to get under them and his clever work was loudly cheered by the crowd.

The star performer for the Pirates was Clymer, whose batting and base running was the feature of the afternoon. Out of five times at bat Clymer made four hits, all of them singles. He also had a sacrifice hit so his batting record for the afternoon was perfect. The pitchers in this game were Leever and Taylor, and the Schoolboy twirler had easily the best of the pitching argument. He held the Cardinals safe in all but the fourth and ninth innings, when they scored their runs. Leever let up a little in the ninth as his team had the game well in hand.

Taylor was more than anxious to pitch a winning game as he has a spite against the Pirates because of the charges preferred against him last winter. He used the spit ball almost exclusively. To this peculiar pitch the locals took kindly. Three wild pitches were chalked up against him. The Pirates started right after him from the jump and gave him no rest until nine runs were scored. These runs were the result of clean hitting and fast base running, the men on the bases taking all kinds of chances. Clymer scored the first run in the opening inning as a result of a single by himself, a stolen base, a wild throw and a single by Beaumont. Clymer also scored in the third when he singled and got around on a sacrifice by Clarke and two wild pitches. In the fourth three runs were scored on four hits and two bases on balls.

In the Sixth inning Peitz led off with a hit and brought home a run on a sacrifice by Clymer and a single by Beaumont. Three more runs were scored in the seventh on three hits and a base on balls. The Cardinals did not score until the sixth inning, when an error by Leach, a single by Smoot, and a three-bagger by Burke produced two runs. In the ninth Leever took things easy and three runs were scored on a base on balls and four hits, one of which was for two bases and two others for three bases. The scores:

Osborne Takes Morning, 6 to 2—Darkness Stops the Second Contest.

EASTLEY VS. GLASSBURNER

Homestead yesterday morning on its home field, displayed something like its old-time form, and won easily from McKeesport, 6 to 2. Arch Osborne pitched a fine game and he was given excellent support by his team. The game throughout was interesting.

Both teams played again in the afternoon at McKeesport before almost 2,000 people. Frank Eastley was on the rubber for Homestead and Hit Glassburner for McKeesport. Both were pitching ball at the close of the sixth inning when Umpire Frank Moran called the game on account of darkness. Neither side was able to score, both pitchers being at their best. The day previous Eastley pitched against Braddock, but he, nevertheless, was strong again yesterday. The score:

BOUND FOR BOSTON.

President Dreyfuss Goes East, to Press Complaint Against Manager McGraw.

President Dreyfuss left last night for Boston to attend the meeting of the board of directors called for June 1 to hear his complaint against John J. McGraw, manager of the New York team. Before he boarded the train President Dreyfuss said:

"I go not going east for revenge or for vindication, but simply to make a formal complaint to the board of directors against John McGraw for his conduct at the Polo grounds on May 19 and May 20. It is for the board to decide what should be done. I hope all the members will be present." President Dreyfuss expects to return in time to see the final game of the Chicago series next Saturday.

The St. Louis team will close its present engagement here this afternoon. The game will begin at 3:30 o'clock, the usual hour. Manager Burke is better fixed for pitchers for the final game than Clarke is, for he has both Thielman and Kohlman in the reserve, and they are doing good work for the Cardinals. Thielman has beaten every club excepting Chicago. Clarke will probably use Flaherty, as Lynch and Robertaille pitched Monday and Phillippe is still bothered by the bruise he received at Philadelphia. St. Louis needs the game to break even on the series.

Pitcher Nichols was badly hurt in the morning game and will not work again for 10 days. It was his first appearance of the season in a championship game, and in the seventh inning a batted ball struck his thumb.

Shaners Lose and Win.

The Shaners and Pittsburgh Lyceum split even on the Denny grounds yesterday afternoon. Lyceum won the morning game, 9 to 4. Blanchard's pitching proved too much for the Shaners, being able to secure but three hits off his delivery. Berghammer getting them all. Fairman pitched a poor game, giving nine bases on balls. Lyceum clinched the game in the eighth inning, getting four runs on as many hits. In the afternoon game Mathern pitched splendid ball for the Shaners, allowing but seven scattered hits. The fielding of Geyer, Harkins and Means and Spahr's batting were the features of the game. About 5,000 people witnessed both games. Scores:

STATE WINS A SLUGGING MATCH AT PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., May 30.—(Special.)—By way of preventing the Tigers from meeting Yale with a swelled head, fortune gave them a box on the ears this afternoon and Pennsylvania State college came off victorious with a score of 8 to 6. The first sign of trouble came in the first inning, when the visitors brought in two runs. The Tigers soon remedied the matter, but the Pennsylvania boys again took the lead and kept it, though both sides piled up their score rapidly. In the eighth inning Pennsylvania State made her final number eight, and it was all over but the shouting. This is Princeton's second defeat at home this year, the other coming from the Pirates 4 to 3. The score:

TOGO THE SILENT LAYS HIS TRAP

Russians Fall Into It, and Are Outmaneuvered, Outfought and Outshot.

DEBUT OF THE SUBMARINES

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, May 30.—The proverb that Admiral Togo always fights and seldom reports is proving true in the case of his greatest battle. From the briefest and most fragmentary reports coming to Tokyo, it is impossible to gain an approximate conception or picture of the desperate and decisive combat. The navy department, strictly announcing the bare results yesterday, has lapsed into silence again. It meets inquirers with the statement that the department is not interested in the publication of news, but is concerned only in securing victory for Japan.

It is probable that many details of the fight will never be given to the world. It will probably be days and weeks before the main facts of the battle and its strategy are made known. Admiral Togo appears to have planned and laid a complete trap which fitted Admiral Rojestvensky's action, and the Japanese outmaneuvered, outfought and outshot the Russians, fearlessly taking their lightest cruisers against the heavy Russian armor-clad battleships, and joining battleships with armored cruisers, smothering them with gunfire.

Tremendous interest attaches to the use of submarine vessels. The navy department is silent on this point, but it is confidently believed that submarines were effectively used for the first time in history. Theoretically, the sea was too rough for the employment of submarines Saturday, but the Japanese sailors welcome desperate chances. It is believed that torpedo boats and destroyers scored heavily Saturday night. The conditions on Sunday were most favorable. The night was calm and clear and land was visible for 40 miles across the Tsu straits.

Hundreds of Russian refugees who landed on the Tsu islands and neighboring provinces are coming to Basebo and Maizuru. Many of them are wounded and all otherwise suffering from the terrible ordeal of the long battle. Local branches of the Red Cross and government hospitals are sheltering and treating them.

It is believed the fighting ended Monday. A search of the sea is in progress today. The fate of Admiral Rojestvensky is still in doubt. The failure of tidings strengthens the belief he has either reached Vladivostok or fled south.

Fifty-five Russian sailors, some of them wounded, were picked up 18 miles off Mishima, yesterday. Twenty-three of the crew of the Aurora were landed yesterday and 67 refugees were rescued today, in the same vicinity.

Tokyo is again jubilant today. Hundreds of callers and deputations throng the navy department, offering thanks and congratulations. The newspapers declare Admiral Togo has gained a place beside Nelson.

WALLACE FOR HIGH COURT.

Lawrence County's Former Judge Announces Himself a Candidate for the Vacancy.

NEW CASTLE, PA., May 30.—(Special.)—Judge William D. Wallace will in all probability be a candidate for the supreme court. Tonight he said: "I am in the hands of my friends, with whom I am in touch in all parts of the state. We will know within a day or two positively concerning my candidacy. Certainly I will not be a candidate for the Browns' interests, but for Wallace. If I am a candidate I will go in to win."

Lieut.-Gov. Brown tonight said he knew nothing about Wallace's possible candidacy and refused to discuss the matter.

NATION'S HEROES HONORED BY ALL

Every Section of the Country Pays Tribute to the Soldier Dead.

THE DAY IN THE SOUTH

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., May 30.—The graves of 14,000 Union soldiers buried in the National cemetery here were decorated today. A feature of the exercises was the presentation of a stand of colors by the citizens of Chattanooga to the Seventh cavalry located at Fort Oglethorpe, but soon to depart for the Philippines. The presentation was made by United States Senator Frasier.

NEWPORT, R. I.—Several unique features marked the observance of Memorial day here. In memory of sailors who lost their lives at sea in the service of their country ladies of the Woman's Relief corps scattered flowers on the graves. The grave of the French admiral De Ternay, who was sent by his government during the revolutionary war to aid the colonists, was decorated by Sons of the Revolution. Among the flowers was a wreath from a Paris newspaper.

DENVER, COL.—A feature of the Memorial day exercises in this city was an address by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, at the grave of the Rev. Myron Reed. The grave of Mr. Reed is decorated annually by the labor organizations.

MEADVILLE, PA.—Memorial day was observed here today by Sergt. Peiffer Post, No. 331, G. A. R. Dr. Theodore L. Flood, a member of the post, read President Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Addresses were made by the Rev. F. M. Silsley and Gen. H. S. Huidekoper of Philadelphia.

GREENVILLE, PA.—The memorial address was delivered by the Rev. William Bramfield of Portland, N. Y. The exercises were participated in by John C. Dickey Post, G. A. R., Thomas Evans Camp, Spanish-American War Veterans' association; Knights of Pythias, fire department, school children and borough officials.

BLAIRSVILLE.—A feature of the Memorial day parade here today was 45 girls dressed in white and carrying American flags, representing the 45 states of the Union. Lunch for the civil war veterans was served by the W. C. T. U. This evening exercises were held in the Presbyterian church, in charge of the Christian Endeavor society.

GETTYSBURG.—Impressive ceremonies characterized the observance of Memorial day in the National cemetery here. The procession was headed by former Gov. Beaver, who was the orator of the occasion. An immense throng witnessed the strewing of flowers by school children over the graves of the known and unknown dead. A drizzling rain fell during the ceremonies.

KITTANNING.—Memorial day was observed by John F. Croll post No. 56, and citizens generally. After the flowers had been strewn on the graves the procession marched to the court house, where Prof. J. C. Tautsman of the Kittanning academy and Attorney Charles E. Harrington, delivered addresses.

ALTOONA.—Memorial day was observed here by the survivors of the civil and Spanish-American wars. The uniform rank Knights of Pythias also marched to the cemeteries, and held exercises in memory of their deceased members.

Rain interfered with the exercises at Union cemetery.

CONNELLSVILLE.—Memorial day exercises in Connellsville were held this morning in Hillgrove cemetery. The members of W. F. Kuriz post of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Union Veteran Legion, marched to the cemetery headed by the Connellsville Military band. The address was made by the Rev. Dr. J. J. JOHNSTOWN.—Memorial day was marked by the G. A. R., Spanish-American war veterans, Sons of Veterans and the drum corps parade this afternoon and the opening of Luna park, Johnstown's new amusement resort. Business was almost entirely suspended. Capt. Robert W. Hunt of Chicago delivered the Memorial day oration.

WASHINGTON.—National salutes by batteries of United States artillery, processions of veterans to different cemeteries, strewing of flowers upon the graves of men who participated in the civil war, orations, martial music and songs marked Memorial day in the national capital. There are many points about the city where soldiers are buried and none of the graves were neglected. The Arlington National cemetery, where not only thousands of enlisted men are buried, but where rest the remains of hundreds of prominent officers, was the principal point of interest. Here, Senator Joseph B. Foraker of Ohio, a soldier of the civil war, delivered a patriotic address.

An interesting feature of the ceremonies at Arlington was a tribute from Cuba to the dead of the Spanish war. Senor Rivero, charge d'affaires, accompanied by all members of the Cuban legation, went to the cemetery and placed a wreath upon the monument which marks the graves of the sailors of the Maine and also decorated the graves of soldiers who fell during the Spanish war.

EQUITABLE CRISIS IS COMING TODAY

Frick Investigating Committee's Report Is to Be Submitted to the Board.

RESIGNATIONS ARE EXPECTED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, May 30.

What may be the most sensational meeting ever held by the directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society is scheduled for tomorrow when the report of the Frick investigating committee is to be submitted to the board. Every member of the directorate has announced his intention to be present and with the reading of the Frick report, it was said tonight, the board of directors will at once take steps to settle the internal strife in the society.

So far as could be learned the report will not embody any suggestions as to the result of the work done, but will be confined entirely to a detailed account of the committee's labors. On the strength of the showing the report will make, the board of directors is expected to adopt resolutions that will contain recommendations for the future government of the Equitable, and in these there may be a request for resignations. It may be deemed wise by the directors to request that Mr. Alexander and Mr. Tarbell both relinquish their places in the effort to restore harmony. Mr. Hyde may also be asked to retire.

Every effort looking to the harmonizing of the discordant factions has been futile. Mr. Hyde would not agree to certain mutualization plans that Mr. Alexander demanded as the price of peace. Mr. Hyde would not surrender the power of control which his stock holdings give him and would not listen to any mutualization scheme other than that to which he had previously acquiesced.

Under the present plans the Equitable is to have a chairman of the board who will be superior to the president. Mr. Hyde demanded that he be given the right to nominate the man who is to be chairman. Mr. Alexander refused to grant this demand.

Many of the directors believe that some mutualization plan will have to be decided upon ultimately and that the stock of the Equitable will have to be purchased by the society out of the treasury. This is one of the questions that will probably come up for discussion tomorrow or tomorrow.

No director was willing to hazard the opinion today as to what will be the joint view taken by the directors in the Frick committee report, but all did say the directors "mean business," and that the meeting promises to be an important one in the history of the society. Denial was made by one of the most prominent of the directors that the Frick committee's report is to be of a whitewashing character. This director further said that perfect harmony and accord must henceforth exist between the society's officers and unless this can be assured some of the officers will "have to disappear."

THINKS PENNYPACKER WOULD REFUSE JUDGESHIP

Senator Penrose Believes Governor Will Make Supreme Court Appointment.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—"From the fact that Gov. Pennypacker has once declined a nomination for a place on the supreme bench of Pennsylvania, I infer that he will not now become a candidate to succeed the late Justice Dean," said Senator Penrose this evening. "I suppose the governor will appoint someone to fill the vacancy and that the state committee will nominate the man the governor appoints."

Senator Penrose came over from Philadelphia today and will be here for a few days. He wants to see the president about a number of matters, one of which is to ascertain how many places in the consular service will be alloted to Pennsylvania. There are a number of applicants for consularships from that state and the senator would like some intimation from the president as to how many the state will be allowed.

No date has been set, he said, for the meeting of the state committee to nominate a candidate for the supreme court. He will talk with Col. W. R. Andrews, state chairman, on this subject, and a date will probably be arranged. Senator Penrose appreciates the fitness of Gov. Pennypacker for the supreme bench and would like to see him succeed to the place now vacant. There is no doubt but that if the governor would take the nomination he would have the support of Senator Penrose.

OFFERED PORK FOR A LIFE.

Price Promised for the Murder Is Said to Have Been a Portion of the Fair Killing.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., May 30.—(Special.)—Mrs. "Bud" McCroskey, whose husband lie in the Calhoun county jail, charged with the murder of Henry Blackshire, promises to become an important witness in the case when it comes to trial.

She stated tonight that Mrs. Blackshire had tried to hire her to murder Blackshire. She says she was to get half the pork the Blackshires killed and a money consideration besides. She says that another man, who has not yet been arrested, furnished the money for the revolver with which Blackshire was killed; that he directed the plot, and was to marry Mrs. Blackshire after the murder and go west. She says Mrs. Blackshire held the lantern while the murder of her husband was committed. It is believed that Mrs. McCroskey was present when the murder was committed.

STEWART'S MEN ON GUARD.

Drive Gamblers Away from the Picnics Along the Allegheny River and Preserve Order.

County Detectives Armstrong, O'Brien, Sonnenfeldt and Reed patrolled the districts along the Allegheny river yesterday, visiting the resorts and picnic beds of Millvale, Etna, Sharpsburg and Aspinwall, and succeeded in preserving the best order that has been known in years. Many gamblers and crooks were met, but were warned away by Stewart's men. At Ross grove one man had started a baddle wheel game, but was stopped early in the day.

William Staples was found outside the grove abusing a woman whom he had dragged from an Aspinwall car and beaten with his fists. The detectives placed him under arrest and he was fined $5 and costs by Burgess W. H. Hastings of Aspinwall.

All the other resorts were found to be orderly and no beer was sold.

REQUIEM FOR HIBERNIANS.

Division No. 10 Marches to Church to Pray for the Dead.

Division No. 10, Ancient Order of Hibernians, attended a solemn requiem high mass at the Church of the Epiphany yesterday. The mass was for the repose of the souls of departed members. The division marched from the headquarters to the church in a body, headed by President Patrick A. Ricards. Father Lawrence O'Connell sang the mass. Father Miles Sweeney was the deacon and Father Boyle the sub-deacon.

It is a new thing for the Hibernians to have the annual requiem mass on Memorial day, but the occasion seems so appropriate that in future the mass will always be sung on that day.

Among the social affairs which will precede the wedding is the luncheon to be given at the Duquesne club today by Mrs. J. H. Smitley of Dithridge street.

McCoy-Fontaine.

There were several out-of-town guests at the wedding of Miss Mary S. McCoy and Thomas P. Fontaine last evening, the list including the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mary W. Fontaine of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cooper of New York, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McCoy of Syracuse, and Mrs. Frank Wetzel of Philadelphia. The wedding took place at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. McCoy, in McPherson boulevard, East End, with the Rev. Dr. W. S. Fulton, pastor of the Point Breeze Presbyterian church, as officiant. The bride, in a gown of white crepe de chine with duchesse lace trimmings, and carrying a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, was attended by Miss Mabel Greene of New Castle as maid of honor. Little Miss Marian Crosby and Master Wilfred Cooper held the ribbons which formed the aisle for the bridal party, and Lewis McCoy, the bride's brother, acted as Mr. Fontaine's best man. Miss Greene was gowned in white organdie, lace trimmed, and her flowers were pink roses. Both little ribbon bearers were wholly in white. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion, white peonies and roses being used in the parlor, where, in a corner, the background for the bridal party was formed with palms. American Beauty roses made an effective appearance in the dining-room, where small tapers in candelabra were placed for the guests. The bridal table and a table for the parents of the couple occupied the library, where white carnations were the flowers used. The centerpiece on the former was formed by the bouquets of the bride and maid of honor. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fontaine began their wedding trip. No at-home cards have been issued nor dates been set, but the couple will live in this city.

Wedding Rehearsal Is Held.

In addition to the members of the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Myers, Richard Fisher and Mrs. Martin Fisher were present last evening at the rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Edna Hartman and Harry B. Fisher. The rehearsal took place at the bride's home in California avenue, Allegheny, and was followed by an informal supper. The wedding will be a home event of tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. S. J. Glass, pastor of the McClure Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate. Miss Hannah McClure Watson has been chosen as maid of honor and Miss Lily Fisher and Miss Emma Hardenner as bridesmaids. The best man is Martin Burnett Fisher, and the ushers are George Gerwig and William Havekotte. At the conclusion of their wedding trip Mr. Fisher and his bride will be at home in California avenue, Allegheny, where they have announced Thursdays in July as at-home days.

Will Wed Today.

An event of today will be the wedding of Miss Minnie M. Burleigh, daughter of Thomas D. Burleigh and Oliver Graham Ferguson, which will take place at the home of the bride's brother, Charles Burleigh, Forbes street and McKee place. The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate, will solemnize the marriage, and the bridal party will include Miss Lorna Burleigh, a niece of the bride, and Miss Helen Rush, as bridesmaids; little Miss Dorothy Burleigh, also a niece, as flower girl; Pierce Ferguson, a cousin of the bridegroom, and John Roberts, as ushers. The couple will be at home in Oakland avenue after July 1.

Helping to Build New Chapel.

Miss Emma Zug's class, No. 12, of the Central Presbyterian chapel, held a very successful ice cream and candy sale yesterday afternoon on the porches of Miss Zug's home in Fifth avenue. The proceeds will go toward the building fund of the new chapel, which will be erected this summer at Forbes and Seneca streets. The girls in Miss Zug's class are Miss Nettie Boder, Miss Pearl Doyle, Miss Clara Cousins, Miss Amelia Moore, Miss Marion Littell and Miss Lizzie Kane.

Benefit Play and Dance.

An interesting event scheduled for Thursday evening of next week is the dramatization of Browning's poem, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," which the pupils in the Westminster-Neville school will give in Conservatory hall, Dithridge street. Every effort is being put forth to make the entertainment a success, as the proceeds will be used for the Kingsley House summer home. The play will be followed by an informal dance for the pupils and their friends.

Mrs. Clarkson's Luncheons.

Seventy-five guests will be present at each of the two luncheons which Mrs. George Taylor Clarkson of Stratford avenue will give today and tomorrow. Both will be given at the Country club, without any special guests of honor, and both will be followed by music and bridge whist. Dainty little baskets of pink and white sweet peas will occupy the center of each of the small tables.

Mrs. Reed to Be Hostess.

Mrs. James Hay Reed of Amberson avenue, Shadyside, will be hostess at an informal tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Howard of New York, a house guest of Judge and Mrs. Reed, will be guest of honor.

Notes of Society.

Mrs. Christina Anderson of Parnassus entertained at cards on Monday evening to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jessie Stewart Anderson, and Frank Garfield Slagin, the engagement to terminate in a June wedding.

Ulysses G. Williams, a former president of the Turtle Creek Savings and Trust Company, left last week on the Baltic for a European tour of several months.

AMONG THE CLUBS

Acceptances Not All In.

The nominating committee for the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women is not yet ready to announce the complete ticket prepared at the meeting held a couple of weeks ago in Harrisburg. Several of the nominees declined the honor conferred on them for various reasons, and acceptances have not yet been received from their alternates. The ticket as filled out at present includes the following from whom acceptances have been received: President, Miss Kate C. MacKnight, Pittsburgh; treasurer, Mrs. Wilbur Flan Ditch, Ardmore; secretary, Miss Mary Knox Orvis, Philadelphia. Vice presidency: Eastern, Mrs. Cochran; central, Miss Myra Lloyd Dock; western, Mrs. Ida B. Houghton. The only director who has yet signified her acceptance is Miss Suzanne Beatty of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Mansfield B. Brown of Sewickley was the other nominee for director from this district, her alternates being chosen from the northwestern and the western district, and it is possible that the directorship may yet come to Allegheny county. Mrs. Wigfall of Bloomsburg was the director nominated from the eastern district and Mrs. Peck for the central, but neither of them have yet accepted. The vice presidency for the eastern district was offered Mrs. Thorpe of the New Century club, Philadelphia, who was also a member of the nominating committee, but who declined to serve when elected. Mrs. Thorpe also refused the nomination for the office president, which then went to Mrs. Cochran.

Taking Exams for Scholarship.

The examinations for the scholarship of $150 offered by the Pittsburgh branch of the Collegiate Alumnae association were held yesterday in the Pennsylvania College for Women. There were 10 applicants, but only six appeared at the college yesterday for the examinations, which were conducted under the direction of Miss Alice Skilton of the Collegiate Alumnae association. The examinations were conducted with a good deal of enthusiasm, and as all of the young women who were contesting for the scholarship are honor students in the schools from which they are just about to graduate, the result will not be easy to determine. The studies in which the examinations were given are algebra, Vergil and English, and the papers handed in will be marked by teachers who are well known for their excellence in each of those branches. Two of the students who were examined were from the McKeesport High school, three from the Pittsburgh Central High school and one from the Pittsburgh academy. Each one has selected a different college in which to continue her studies, the list including the Pennsylvania College for Women, Vassar college, Bryn Mawr, Smith college, the University of Michigan and the Western Reserve college.

Looking for a Summer Home.

The Relief club, composed of young women of Pittsburgh, who are interested in settlement work and visiting among the poor, are househunting. The club for two summers past has rented a house in Idlewood, which has been a summer home to which were taken children from the poor and crowded parts of the city. This year this house cannot be rented, and although the young women have been looking for an equally desirable location and a comfortable house, they have not yet found one which is easily accessible to the city and presents all the attractions they deem desirable. They hope to be able to announce their plans for the summer in a few days.

Miss MacKnight Is in Philadelphia.

Miss Kate C. MacKnight of Western avenue, Allegheny, left at noon Monday for the east, intending to spend several days in Philadelphia. She will go from there to Atlantic City to attend the council of the General Federation of Women's clubs, which will be conducted June 7 and 8 in the Hotel Chalfant. It is expected that Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker of Denver, president of the General Federation, will be in Atlantic City at that time. Miss MacKnight hopes to return to Pittsburgh the following week in order to speak at the mass meeting in the First Presbyterian church, Wilkinsburg, June 15, in the interests of the juvenile court work.

Musicale for Charity Fund.

A very enjoyable program has been planned for the musicale which the New Era club will give tomorrow afternoon at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Harrison, 6063 Frankstown avenue, commencing at 2 o'clock, the proceeds to be devoted to charity. The program will be presented by a quartet of singers who are members of the club—Mrs. Franklin Pierce and Miss Helen Grimes, sopranos, with Mrs. J. H. Harrison and Mrs. Rinehart Mayer, contraltos. Mrs. J. W. Riley will be the pianist and Mrs. Franklin P. Thomas and Mrs. C. H. Garwood, vocal soloists. Readings will be given by Mrs. Byron King and Mrs. Norwood Johnston.

FLOOD CORRESPONDENTS WILL BANQUET AND YARN

Sixteenth Anniversary of Johnstown Horror to Be Observed by Newspaper Men Who Went to the Front.

With a banquet at the Union club this evening the members of the Johnstown Flood Correspondents' association will observe the anniversary of the terrible disaster which swept the Conemaugh valley just 16 years ago today. From 20 to 25 members will meet and review their experiences in the stricken hooded district. Yesterday A. S. McSwigan, president of the association, received a letter from Thomas M. King, formerly vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, who now lives in New York, stating that he will be on hand. J. Hampton Moore, president of the City Trust Company of Philadelphia, writes that he will probably be here. He is closing up his affairs as head of the bureau of manufactures at Washington, and the change makes it hard for him to get away. Many other Pittsburgh men who will surely be here are John J. Pregeant and W. J. Wemhy of New York. It is probable there will be some other visitors from Philadelphia and New York.

The local committee on entertainment, consisting of Col. W. C. Connelly, J. E. Johnston, Charles S. Howell, E. H. Heinrichs, L. H. Cowen and A. S. McSwigan, has received from the Banker Brothers Company, the Allegheny Automobile company and the Standard Automobile Company an offer of as many machines as may be needed to take guests on a sightseeing tour. President James D. Callery has also offered the use of his private car, Pittsburgh, for the same purpose.

Among the letters of regret received from prominent people is a characteristic one from Superior Court Judge James A. Beaver. It was during Judge Beaver's term as governor that the flood occurred. Writing from Bellefonte Judge Beaver says:

"I regret to say that an engagement to deliver the Memorial day address at Gettysburg and another engagement in New York on the following day will prevent my acceptance of your invitation. I much appreciate your thoughtfulness in the premises and would be very glad to accept if it were possible for me to do so. It seems to me that the unusual conditions under which the newspaper men met at Johnstown not only justifies, but practically demands, the emphasis which you give to the associations of those unusual experiences. They were absolutely unique, and it does not seem as though they could ever be paralleled. I sincerely hope you may meet with undiminished numbers and have a most enjoyable evening, which, let me say again, I much regret to miss."

KING ALFONSO IN PARIS.

Royal Honors Paid by President Loubet to Spain's Reigning Sovereign Upon His Arrival in France.

PARIS, May 30.—The royal train, bringing King Alfonso of Spain for a week's visit, arrived at the Gare Dauphine at 3 o'clock this afternoon. President Loubet, accompanied by the cabinet, greeted the king as he descended, while batteries of artillery thundered a royal salute of 101 guns.

A large force of troops rendered military honors and the vast assemblage gave an enthusiastic popular greeting to his majesty, who was dressed in the full uniform of a Spanish captain general. He entered a state coach with M. Loubet and was escorted by a regiment of Cuirassiers to the D'Orsay palace, where sumptuous apartments had been prepared for him.

TROMSOE, NORWAY, May 30.—The Arctic steamer Terra Nova arrived here today from London and will proceed next week to the relief of the Fiala-Ziegler expedition on the American, which is supposed to be at Franz Josef Land. The members of the duke of Orleans' expedition arrived here last night. His steamer, the Belgica, is coaling preparatory to sailing for the island of Novaya Zemlya, where she will take on board the sledge dogs and other material for the trip.

NO TEACHERS NAMED YET.

Director Hamerschlag of Carnegie Technical Schools Says Building Must First Be Assured.

"No nominations have been made as yet for positions on the teaching staff of the Carnegie Technical Schools," said Director Arthur A. Hamerschlag of the schools yesterday, when asked about the report that Prof. S. S. Keller of the chair of mathematics at Wittenberg college, Springfield, O., had accepted the position of professor of mathematics at the "Tech."

"Until these nominations are made and the Technical schools committee has given its approval, there is no decision in regard to any candidate for a position at the schools. I do not expect to make the nominations until such progress has been made in the erection of the buildings as will insure their completion by a certain time."

Memorial Day in Paris.

PARIS, May 30.—Memorial day was observed in the American colony here. Ambassador McCormick, Consul General Gowdy and other officials attended the ceremony in Picpus cemetery, where the grave of Lafayette was decorated.

In the Oil Fields

In the Wolf Creek field, on the Ohio side, in Washington county, the Pure Oil Producing Company has completed its No. 1 on the George Rowland farm and has a show for a five-barrel pumper in the shallow sand. The same company has completed its No. 28 on the J. J. Lorenz farm and has a duster in the same sand. In the same district J. J. Lorenz & Co. have completed No. 10 on the Lizzie Palmer farm and have a show for a 12 or 15-barrel producer. In the Lowell district, in the same county, the Reid Run Oil Company has drilled in its No. 6 on the William Roth Fuchs farm and has a show for a 25-barrel producer. When shot it may do still better. Southeast of Jerusalem, Monroe county, in the new Big Lime development, the Mars Drilling Company has completed its test on the John L. Rowley farm and has a show for a 15 or 20-barrel producer in the Big Lime.

In the Littleton district, in Wetzel county, West Virginia, the South Penn Oil Company has now drilled its test on the M. Bradley farm through all sands and has a duster. In the Yellow Creek district, Calhoun county, the South Penn's No. 3 on the Rose L. Norman farm is holding up at 250 barrels a day. This is now the first producer in the district and the only well producing 100 or more barrels a day. In the same district the Aloco Oil and Gas Company is drilling its No. 8 on the Rubala Ayers farm from the Maxon to the Berea grit. A show for a 10-barrel pumper was developed in the Maxon, and if nothing better is found in the lower formations is will be tested at that level.

In the Mt. Morris district, in Greene county, Pennsylvania, the Carnegie Natural Gas Company has drilled its test on the McWilliams farm through all sands and has a duster.

Foreign Money Markets.

LONDON, May 30.—Money was in good demand in the market today for stock exchange and month-end requirements. Discounts were steady. On the stock exchange there was renewed firmness, stimulated by the latest news regarding the Japanese naval victory, through attention centered on contingencies. Consols were strongly supported, but eased to a fraction below the best quotations of the day. Home rails were firm, being encouraged by the weather. Americans opened steady and were fairly upheld, but partly, although an easier depression was manifested. Business was restricted owing to the holiday in New York. Prices dropped a fraction and later business was dull. Grand Trunk was buoyant on bear covering. The feature of foreigners was the strength of Japanese 4s and the weakness of Russians. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 103½. Consols for money, 91 1-16; consols for account, July, 91 5-16. Bar silver quiet at 26¾d per ounce. Money, 1¾@2⅛ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2⅛ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 2⅛ per cent.

PARIS, May 30.—Prices on the bourse today opened firm, a strong sentiment prevailing that peace would result in the far east from the recent battle in the straits of Korea. Russian bonds were at 400.00, for the first time in months, being below par. At this close the market was calm and prices were sustained. Russian imperial 4s were quoted at 88.50 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 400.00. The private rate of discount was 1⅝ per cent. Three per cent rentes, 90 francs, 67½ centimes, for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs 19 centimes for checks.

BERLIN, May 30.—Trading on the bourse today was active, owing to the hopes entertained of peace in the far east, and Russians rose 5 1-5 per cent. Exchange on London, 20 marks 48½ pfennigs for checks. Discount rates: Short bills, 3¼ per cent; three months' bills, 3¼ per cent.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 30.—The bourse showed no signs of panic today. Fours again closed at 88¼.

First Mortgage Bonds.

Commonwealth Trust Company, No. 327 Fourth avenue, is offering to investors choice first mortgage bonds, yielding 5 to 5½ per cent.

The Travel on Railroads Yesterday Broke All Previous Records

All the railroads having terminals in Pittsburgh report heavy travel yesterday. All the passenger equipment available was brought into service to handle the crowd. The travel to picnic reports exceeded the regular travel by over 50 per cent. Special trains were run to Woodland Beach, Ashtabula, Wheeling, Cascade park, New Castle, Rock Springs, Rock Point, Butler, Cumberland, Ohio Pyle and Altoona. The early morning trains brought large crowds to the city, many of whom took part in the memorial ceremonies. No specials were run into the city, but the regular trains had extra coaches attached. The heaviest travel was to the nearby resorts. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie ran 12 special trains to Woodland Beach, Cascade park and Allliquippa park. The Pennsylvania lines ran specials to Rock Springs, Rock Point and Cascade park. The Baltimore & Ohio sent specials to Cumberland, Ohio Pyle, Olympia and Wheeling. No figures were given out yesterday as to the number of passengers handled. But it is believed it is over 10 per cent more than was taken care of last Decoration day.

Created Freight Claim Agency.

Official circulars have been issued announcing the appointment of W. P. Cunningham as freight claim agent for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. He will be located in the South side terminal building. Mr. Cunningham was formerly connected with the auditing department. The office is a new one. Mr. Cunningham will have charge of all freight claims, damaged, refused and unclaimed goods, tracing and reconsigning, and all communications pertaining to such matters. The appointment will become effective tomorrow.

Locating Freight Line Route.

It is admitted by the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad that surveyors are at work locating a route for a freight line between Pittsburgh and New York. Chief Engineer Brown says the surveyors are working east of Altoona, and within a few days will survey west of that place. East of Altoona the line is partially completed and the desired grades have been obtained. The line will parallel the main tracks the greater part of the distance.

Railroad Notes.

L. E. Whalen has been placed in charge of the Thirty-third street produce yards of the B. & O.

President Oscar G. Murray of the B. & O. is making an inspection of the entire system.

S. R. Murdock, a brother of John A. Murdock, has taken service with the Pittsburgh office of the Seaboard Air Line. John A. Murdock, commercial freight agent of the line, is now at Atlantic City recuperating from an attack of typhoid fever.

No word has been received here yet as to the arrival of the new first vice president of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal, E. A. Worthington. He is expected today or tomorrow.

MAGGIE KLEIN BRACING UP.

Escapes a Workhouse Sentence By Going to the Home of the Good Shepherd on Troy Hill.

Maggie Klein, a widow, aged 50, of River avenue, Allegheny, virtually sentenced herself to an indefinite period in the Home of the Good Shepherd, after a hearing on a charge of drunkenness, before Magistrate Harkins, at the North Side Central station, yesterday morning.

The magistrate said he guessed he would send her to the workhouse for 30 days, as she had been drinking entirely too much lately, and was arrested frequently.

"Don't do that, your honor," she said earnestly. "Discharge me for this offense and I'll take myself to the Home of the Good Shepherd on Troy Hill, and stay until I'm fit to take care of myself and my home. My children won't help me because of the drink, but the sisters at the Good Shepherd home will straighten me up and give me a start. So discharge me, judge, and I swear I'll reform for good."

"All right, Maggie," said the magistrate, "I'll give you another chance. But when will you go to the home?"

"Right away, your honor," and away she went as fast as she could travel. She landed safely at the home about 10 a. m., where she was received and given a place in the kitchen.

French Steamer Is Wrecked.

YORCHU, C. B., May 30.—The French steamer Pro Patria is ashore off this port in a dangerous position, with her hold full of water. The passengers and crew have been landed. The Pro Patria, bound from St. Pierre, Miq., for Halifax, with mail and passengers and a small cargo, lost her bearings yesterday during a dense fog, and ran out of her course. She will be a total loss.

MRS. POTTER'S DENIAL.

Her Counsel Disputes Alleged Embezzler's Story That He Loaned Her the Missing Money.

LONDON, May 30.—Counsel representing Mrs. James Brown Potter sent a letter to the newspapers saying there is no truth whatever in the statement that Alfred Fossick had lent her any money whatever.

Fossick is a lawyer of Maidenhead, Berkshire, who is charged with misappropriating $90,000 and who, according to a statement made in court yesterday, by counsel for the plaintiff in the case, informed plaintiff's counsel that he had lent the money to Mrs. Potter. Counsel for the latter says she had no knowledge of any of the circumstances connected with the charge against Fossick until a few days before his arrest.

MAY MEAN WAR WITH UNIONISM

Significant Changes Made in Republic Iron and Steel Company's Officials.

MANAGER TO MEET MEN

The Republic Iron and Steel Company has changed its administration, which complicates the affairs of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. Col. G. Watson French has been superseded by President A. W. Thompson. The new management is said to be averse to organized labor, while Col. French and James H. Nutt were the best friends the Amalgamated association had ever dealt with.

The climax of the friction, which has existed for several years, was reached last summer, when the settlement was made between the officials of the Republic and the Amalgamated association. The principal stockholders of the Republic made plans for Col. French to carry out. They called for many concessions from the Amalgamated association, and it was up to Col. French and Mr. Nutt to secure them.

Settlement Unsatisfactory to Republic.

The Amalgamated had an agreement with the Republic to operate the plants under the old scale until a new agreement was made. The conferees deadlocked and after several conferences both sides agreed to have a settlement made by a board of conciliation.

The association had considerable difficulty in securing men to serve on the board, but finally appointed one from Birmingham, Ala., who is an attorney and was a former member of the Amalgamated. The attorney succeeded in making a good settlement for the Amalgamated. The result was that Col. French did not obtain the conditions demanded by the stockholders, and the faction antagonistic to the labor organization gained control of the management.

Officials Deprived of Power.

Col. French, who was chairman of the board of directors and general manager of the entire company's holdings, now only fills the position of treasurer, with no voice in the operation of the plants. Mr. Nutt, who was commissioner of labor, and who had authority over all managers and superintendents in adjusting any dispute between the company and the union, is now virtually filling a clerkship, not being permitted to adjust any grievances.

The rules of the Amalgamated provide when a member refuses to pay dues the paid-up members can refuse to work with him. When such cases arose Mr. Nutt would order the delinquent suspended until he paid his arrears.

A case of this kind came up in the Youngstown plant a few days ago. Delinquents were at work and several members of the Amalgamated quit work until they were removed or paid up. Mr. Nutt, as usual, went to the superintendent and ordered the discharge of the delinquents. This was refused and Mr. Nutt was referred to Charles Hart, the general manager. The agreement with the association was explained, but Mr. Hart refused to suspend the men.

This created a friction between President Shaffer and the officials of the Republic. For a time it looked as though a strike would be called, but the affair was allowed to drop.

Joint Conference Is Promised.

Several incidents indicated the association would have trouble in arranging this year's agreement, and President Shaffer, just previous to the Detroit convention, called upon President Thompson of the Republic. He succeeded in getting the promise of a joint conference to adjust the wage scale.

The demand for an advance in wages for all mills added to the friction between the association and the Republic. Following the promise, however, a conference will be held next Monday in Detroit.

Over 50 per cent of the material turned out of the plants of the United States Steel Corporation is made of steel, and the same ratio of iron material is produced by the Republic. By degrees the United States Steel has non-unionized its plants. As the Republic controls the iron market, it is equally strong enough to non-unionize its plants. Whether they will be done is conjectural.

Made Shaffer Unpopular.

President Shaffer, knowing the conditions, advocated at the Detroit convention that all mills be thrown open and operated on the open-shop basis. He also advocated that negroes be permitted to join the organization. His plan was for union men to work in non-union mills and induce the non-union men to affiliate with the organization, thus building it up to a strength where it would be able to force any consistent demand. His proposition was turned down, and by advocating the plan he made many enemies, which was attributed to his being retired from the presidency.

It is strongly intimated the Republic will not permit the continuous operation agreement to be altered to in case of a deadlock on the wage question. This means the Republic will at once declare its mills open and will not recognize the union. Mr. Hart will represent the Republic at the wage conference, and the fact that he is apparently antagonistic to the union makes a satisfactory settlement more improbable.

HOTELS CHANGE HANDS.

New Managers Take Hold of the Lincoln and Anderson Tomorrow.

This is the last day for the present management of the Hotels Lincoln and Anderson. Frank Probst of the Lincoln will turn over the keys tonight to George Schmitt, who has purchased the hotel and also the furnishings. The McKinnies turn over their keys to a stock company.

It is said the McKinnies will retire from the hotel business. Mr. Probst will retire temporarily. He is negotiating with Pittsburgh capitalists to build a new hotel which he will lease.

HIGHWAYMEN HOLD UP SLAV ON ALLEGHENY RIVER BRIDGE

Mat Martini, a Slav, was assaulted and robbed on the Thirtieth street bridge last night. Martini had been visiting friends on Herr's island and was returning home about 8 o'clock. Near the Pittsburgh end of the bridge he was assaulted by two men. One of them struck him over the head, laying open his scalp, and the other cut him on the left leg. They took his watch and $21, and left him on the bridge. Martini managed to get to his home at 172 Thirty-fourth street. While he is severely hurt, his condition is not serious.

MANY FORTUNES ARE LOST MERELY TO TEASE OWNERS

Two Italians with a street piano and a canary bird, which told fortunes by handling out printed slips of paper, came to grief yesterday afternoon in Dickson street, Homestead. Some boys in the neighborhood had a bunch of firecrackers. One of them threw some crackers on the piano and the frightened bird flew around so lively that she scattered the fortunes to the winds. The Italians started after the perpetrator, while one urchin stayed behind and played on the piano the familiar air "Teasing."

OVERCOME BY THE HEAT AND TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

G. M. Grant, aged 50, of 1012 James street, Allegheny, was overcome by the heat at Federal and Ohio streets, at 10:30 a. m., yesterday, and fell on his face, his right cheek coming in contact with the curb, cutting a deep gash in the flesh. He was taken to the Allegheny General hospital, but was able to leave there at 4 p. m.

Muhall Vacant House Burned.

A five-room vacant house in Muhall, owned by Thomas Wood, was completely destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. It is supposed that the flames originated from a spark from a passing locomotive. The loss is placed at $1,200.

ABUSES HIS WIFE AND BABY JUST FOR FUN

Brute Arouses Mayor by Replying He Was Amusing Himself—Fined $100 and Costs.

A case of inhuman treatment of a young wife and a three-weeks' old baby came to light in McKeesport yesterday when Wharton Kreshka appeared before Mayor Felkenstein. Kreshka's wife said her husband came home at night while she was ill in bed and pulled her out by the ankles. She said her husband would grasp the baby by the ears and hold it in the air and then laugh when she remonstrated. She said he did not support her and ill-treated her continually. A brother of Kreshka and his wife's sister offered similar testimony.

"What made you carry on so?" thundered Mayor Falkenstein.

"Just for fun," replied Kreshka.

"What, you, you—I don't know what to call you," exclaimed the indignant mayor. "Take him away, the brute."

Kreshka was fined $100 and costs. The mayor said hanging was too good for such persons.

Well-Known Physician Badly Hurt.

MONESSEN, May 30.—(Special.)—Dr. M. E. Griffith, one of the best known physicians in Westmoreland county and secretary of the local medical society, was badly injured today in a runaway. His horse scared at a trolley car and plunged over a 40-foot embankment, carrying the buggy with him. Dr. Griffith was thrown out and badly injured. He was unconscious for several hours, and it is believed has suffered concussion of the brain. The extent of his injuries cannot yet be determined.

Falls Off a Street Car.

Carter Dyke, a negro, of 46 Fifth avenue, Rankin, fell off an open car on the Penn avenue line, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets, yesterday. He was badly cut about the head and knocked unconscious. He was revived and taken home.

The Three Rivers.

The stage of water at Davis island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 4.2 feet and the river was stationary.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., May 30.—At 6 p. m. today the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 11.3 feet and falling. The departures of packets from the port of Cincinnati today were: Virginia, Pittsburgh; Queenwood, Pomeroy; Courier, Marysville, and City of Louisville, Louisville. The movement to establish a regular line of boats in the Kentucky river and Cincinnati trade has taken life and several men of means have offered their services and money to aid in the scheme. The matter will come to a head after the annual excursion of the members of the Business Men's club. On account of the excessive wharfage which has been asked by several of the smaller settlements along the upper river several managers of the boats have decided to leave these places severely alone and pass up without landing or accepting freight for Cincinnati. Cloudy and rain.

LOUISVILLE—River falling. In canal, 5.6 feet; on falls, 3.3 feet; below locks, 11 feet. Cloudy and warm.

MARIETTA—River 6.5 feet and rising. Warm and showery. Keystone State down at 6 p. m.; Bessie Smith for Pittsburgh at 7 p. m.; Ben Hur for Wheeling at 7 p. m.

MORGANTOWN—River 6 feet and stationary. Cloudy and warmer.

PARKERSBURG—River 6.5 feet and stationary. Cool, with hard rains. The Valley Belle left about 6 p. m. for Middleport; the Bessie Smith at 4 p. m. for Pittsburgh; Ben Hur at 8 p. m. for Wheeling, and the Keystone State at 8 p. m. for Cincinnati.

GREENSBORO—River 6.8 feet and falling. Warm, with rain. Hite down Wednesday. Columbus up.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 2 inches and stationary. Cloudy.

GALLIPOLIS—River 7 feet and stationary. Cloudy and warm, with rain.

POINT PLEASANT—River 5 feet 4 inches and rising. Raining. Down—Tacoma. Up—Greenland.

STEUBENVILLE—River 4 feet inches and rising. Cloudy and warm. Up—Queen City at noon.
